
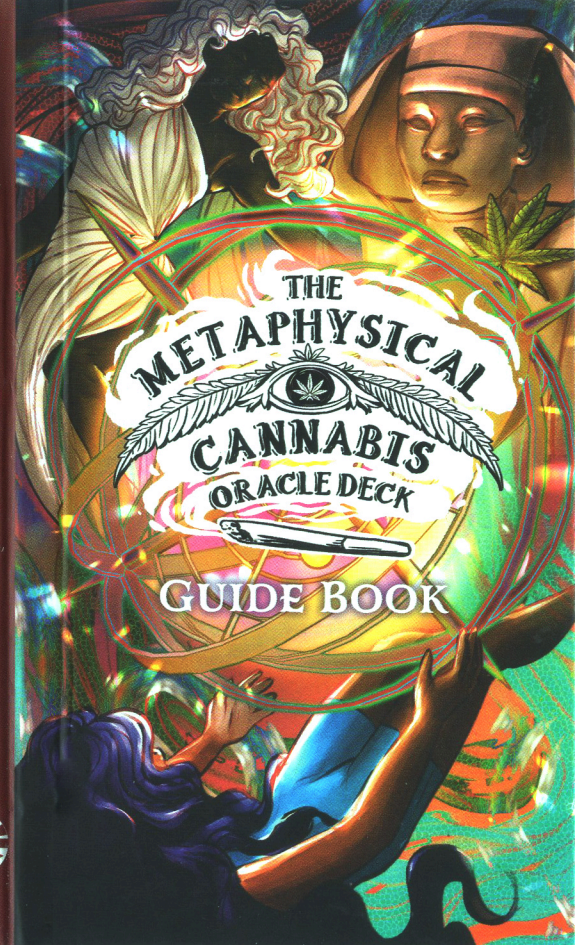
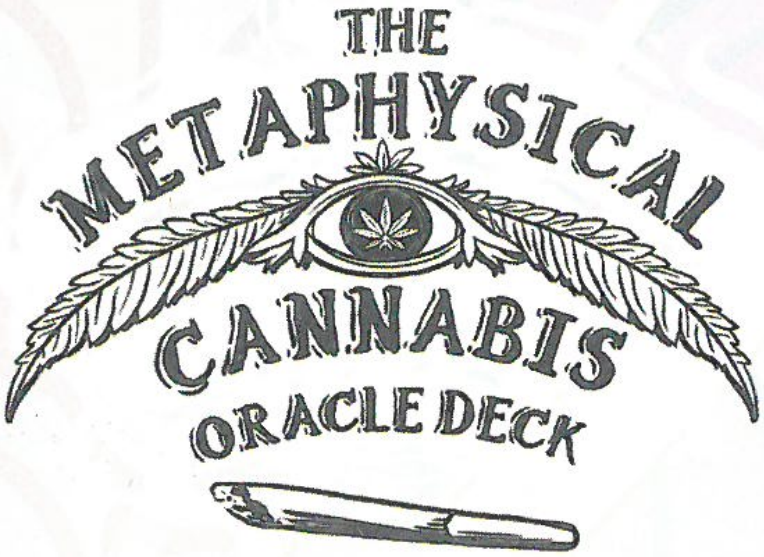
BREATHE INTO YOUR CONCIOUSNESS, BREATHE OUT TO THE UNIVERSE...

Connection with self, body, and universe is essential to mindful practice. The Metaphysical Cannabis Oracle Deck will help you tap into your intuition, opening the third eye through herbal healing. A debut oracle deck by cannabis sommelier Maggie Wilson, and illustrator Ejiwa Ebenebe.

THE METAPHYSICAL CANNABIS ORACLE DECK

LIMINAL 11





To my fiancé & my wonderful children, your love carries me through the clouds. And thank you to my colleague and friend Gabriela, whose grace and belief helped me produce the best possible deck.

Maggie Wilson

To my dearest Mami, whose incredible love and unending support I have been blessed with since birth, and to my lovely CJ, a beautiful soul that I am truly lucky to have in my life. Your light kept me grounded through thick and thin and without you this deck would not exist. Thank you so much, I cherish you more than words can say ❤

Edge

STERLING ETHOS
New York

STERLING ETHOS and the distinctive Sterling Ethos logo are registered trademarks of Sterling Publishing Co., Inc.

Text © 2022 Maggie Wilson
Images © 2022 Ejiwa Ebenebe

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means (including electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise) without prior written permission from the publisher.

ISBN 978-1-4549-4649-6 (Part of a kit)

Distributed in Canada by Sterling Publishing Co., Inc.
c/o Canadian Manda Group, 664 Annette Street Toronto, Ontario M6S 2C8, Canada

For information about custom editions, special sales, and premium and corporate purchases, please contact Sterling Special Sales at 800-805-5489 or specialsales@sterlingpublishing.com.

Manufactured in China

2 4 6 8 10 9 7 5 3 1

sterlingpublishing.com

Contents

CARD INDEX		4
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS		6
INTRODUCTION		8
UNDERSTANDING THE DECK		10
CARD MEANINGS		18
1.	META ARCANA	20
2.	PHYSICAL	65
3.	CANNABIS	77
4.	ORACLES	89
5.	INTEGRATION	101
6.	CULTURE	113
CONNECTING TO YOUR DECK		125

Card Index

Abracadabra 81
Adúrósinsin 30
Agbaye 62
Alabasisepo 32
Alchemy 78
Anchorita 38
Animal Energy 70
Arziki Dabaran 40
Balance 101
Bliss 102
Codes in Nature 105
Cloud Meditation 65
Conjuring 82
Creation Partnered 69
Creation Solo 68
Crystal Technology 103
Dance Portal 74
Divine Feminine 110
Duro Ile 116
Enchantment 86
Etan 50
Equalizer 83
Erzulie 94
Food Meditation 73
Future Love Letter 72
Gateway 109
Glamor Energy 71
Gogoro 52
Gratitude Rampage 75
Gwangwani Jimai 119
Hermetic 80
Higher Perception 107
Hisabi 36
Hoodlove 114
Idajo 60
Ifarada 48
Iku 46
Intergalactic Mastery 111

Irawo.....54
Karusar.....34
Lantarki Mace.....117
Mabudi.....124
Magic.....85
Mami Wata.....93
Manifesteer.....22
Nana Buruku.....92
Nummo/Nommo.....123
Omo.....121
Omo Olorin.....113
Oorun.....58
Orun Mila.....95
Osanyin.....99
Oshun.....89
Osoosi.....96
Osupa.....56
Oya.....91
Qaddamarwa.....44
Rana Rudu.....118
Santa Muerte.....97
Sarauniya Uwa.....26
Sarki.....28
Silent Retreat.....67
Sorcery.....87
Spirit.....77
The Witch Doctor.....24
Thrive-Briety.....115
Truth.....104
Tsabta.....42
Unconditional Love.....106
Universal Oneness.....108
Uwa Aljanna.....120
Vry.....20
Walking Meditation.....66
Witch.....84
Wizard.....79
Yemaya.....90
Yemoja.....122
Yewa.....98

Acknowledgements

Maggie: This would not be possible without the incredible mentors I have had in my life, including my children Achilles and Aurora. One day, this deck will be a rite of passage for you, created straight from my heart. My mom Joyce, my brother Tony, my non-physical brother Michael, my entire adopted family—Missy, Danny, Teresa, Catherine—and my newly found biological family, Jeff, Danielle, and Nicole! Thank you, Gaby, for this incredible opportunity; thank you Danielle W., Nina, Katie, Sailene, Daniel, Chantal, Alex, Meredith, Ceecee, Wesley, Whitney, Miranda, Jamie, Emily D; everyone who attended my event at the Green Lodge in Colorado and California; every client, mentee, mentor, and collective force which brought this to life. Truly most, I am so thankful for the love of my life, Brandon—I could not have done this without your support and unwavering love. This deck is for the dreamers, the manifesters, the plant spirit workers, the healers, the shaman, the medicine women and men, this is for us all, just as the plant intended. This is for us all.

Edge: Over the years, I would often dream about illustrating a tarot deck of my own, but never did I see this coming so soon, or with such an impact! Working on this deck has been such an incredible, challenging, exhausting, life-changing experience, and I'm grateful to be a part of it. I've learned so much along the way about both tarot and cannabis, and I'm excited to keep learning more.

Thank you so much to the wonderful folks at Liminalii: Darren and Kay, for bringing me and Maggie together to work on such an incredible project; Fez, for all your hard work behind the scenes pulling the deck together; and to the rest of the team for being so lovely to work with.

To Maggie, for your incredible work in crafting the very essence of this deck—it's an honor to work alongside you.

To my dearest Mami, Papa, Ginika, Tyler, CJ—my wonderful family... I really couldn't have done this without you. I'm beyond grateful for the unflinching encouragement and belief you all have in me!

To my lovely friends—Carolyn, Ânia, Sarah, Erika, Steff, Odera, Akemi & Mia—thank you all so much for your uplifting encouragement and support. I appreciate your patience with me during my descent into the depths of artistic crunch, haha.

And finally, I'd like to thank every single soul, whether acquaintance or stranger, who crossed my path along this journey and left kindness in their wake—if any of you encounter this deck, I wish that it brings you much joy and illumination in your walks through life :)

Introduction

Meta comes from the Latin word meaning "beyond," giving us the study of transcending physical matter or the laws of nature.

In compiling the tools I learned from the cannabis oracle and her teachers throughout the years, I have discovered that these teachings need to be released to aid the shift in consciousness. In the spirit of the divine feminine, the sacred masculine, and the cannabis plant spirit herself, I, as a healer, have therefore chosen to devise a method of divination to assist each spirit in their journey through the medicine of cannabis. Our ancestors had a very close relationship with this plant, and as we now know, the study of epigenetics suggests trauma can be passed down through generations; our environment is the signal of gene expression. So, I invite you to take this deck into your environment and create new gene expressions that amplify your truth, your love, and your passions. I believe wisdom and education can also be passed down with the help of the spirit of the plant and the intention she helps carry.

The teachings of cannabis vary from culture to culture, but all encompass the tradition. The metaphysical comes from beyond those teachings, and it is through nature that we gain this wisdom. Each unique spark has a divine mission and purpose, even if it is misunderstood by many.

I was fortunate to have these rituals and esoteric teachings passed down to me from many elders within the Lakota and Cherokee tribes. and I've have learned from other cultures including the Mayan, Korean, Egyptian, and my homeland of Nigeria. —because there are so many diverse teachings, I have only begun to scratch the surface of the depth of knowledge from these ancestors. My purpose in creating this oracle is not to cover all the guidance on cannabis and spirituality that has ever existed; my hope is to awaken the inner healer and create a fresh connection to the divine, thus opening a doorway to understanding the most misunderstood plant. The plant has been demonized, but now returns to a state of grace.

This system of divination and understanding has brought medicine to my own life and has been a transformative and powerful journey in the making. May this deck enrich the lives of all of you whom it touches and may you all find that divine spark within.

All the blessings,

Maggie May

Understanding the Deck

Origins

The cannabis plant is said to contain the golden blueprint of humanity, hiding in plain sight for thousands of years in multiple forms. No other plant has ancestral plant spirit medicine and the divine feminine cannabis connection.

Cannabis played a central role in ancient rituals. A smoking cup artifact with charred cannabis seeds dating back to 3,800 years before Christ has revealed that our ancestors regularly used, cultivated, and honored this sacred herb in all of its divine femininity.

The goddess Asherah, whose existence centered around the use and cultivation of cannabis, was revered in Hebrew and Canaanite cultures. In ancient Scythian caves, a rug was found depicting Ashera and her sacred cannabis "Tree of Life." It was here, some believe, among the worshipers of the goddess, that the ritual use of cannabis originated. Goddesses and priestesses would officiate ceremonies using cannabis to induce a state of consciousness open to divine truth and mythical guidance.

Cannabis and the human female exhibit exquisite biological similarities as the plant links up with the divine female form on many levels. Active compounds in cannabis have a molecular resemblance to estrogen. Even the sacred moon time fluids have been used by conscious growers as a successful fertilizer. Only the female cannabis plants yield smokable seeds and flowers (fruits), and these seeds contain a rare gamma linoleic acid, found otherwise only in spirulina, two other rare seeds, and in the nectar from the bosom of each sacred human mama.

Ancestral intuition tells us to marry our masculine and feminine, the sun and moon aspects of the self. The conscious consumption of cannabis aids in this process. Without our natural feminine balance, we exhibit competitiveness, control, and fear instead of empowerment, and lose touch with our spirituality. The plant's spirit reawakens us to the versatility of this ritual herb, which has only recently (in less than the past 100 years) been shrouded in lies and misconceptions. Every major pharmacy in the U.S. carried cannabis tinctures as a medicine until the 1930s when prohibition began.

When used with mindful intention, cannabis can allow intense healing to begin, and profound enlightenment to take place. Honoring this plant's spirit will consciously help remove the stigma placed on such a sacred healing gift.

An oracle, as referred to in this book, is anything that improves one's connection to all that is life. This includes healing your emotional, spiritual, physical, and metaphysical aspects; it also means knowing your purpose, power, strengths, and shadow, and being friends with each of those parts of yourself. It's the constant living of life in a way that enables your accountability to your alignment.

Cannabis is woven deeply into the human story, and we will continue to weave it into that of all future generations and beyond.

The Metaphysical Cannabis Oracle takes inspiration from deep African roots, patterns, integrations, cultural representations, and halls of learning that have been created to deliver messages of healing—especially to anyone astute enough to integrate those lessons in how you live. Nothing in life is ever truly free. We pay through our energy output and energy intake. Each card in this deck is based on major metaphysical lessons and carries hundreds of impactful insights.

The Connection

This system of divination is intended to help you develop intuition, seek confirmation in the world, and gain depth of perspective. When you call upon the power of the cannabis plant spirit and her oracles, you are asking to be admitted into a community that works in harmony. These are the lessons of the human experience, which, through understanding, can create a connection with your higher self.

The Co-Creation

The cannabis plant spirit ally chooses to enter the consciousness of one who has been on the journey for many years and aids in healing the heart. An initiation occurs and brings great wisdom to the healer. Cannabis is known as "the great deprogrammer," and it is said that techniques for mind control are less effective in subjects who use it. Cannabis use can help to create an independent state of mind because the plant's genetic makeup correlates with the human body biologically—a phenomenon expressed in the functions of the endocannabinoid system. The ECS is critical for almost every aspect of our body functioning from moment to moment. This system regulates and controls our most critical bodily functions including pain control, immune response, emotional processing, sleep, inflammatory response, and eating. The ECS is a vast network of chemical signals and cellular responses that run throughout our body and brain. The receptors in the brain are called CB1 receptors, and they outnumber many of the other types of receptors in the brain. They are like traffic lights—they regulate the flow of hunger, alertness, and temperature. The first endocannabinoid to be discovered was named after the Sanskrit word for bliss, ananda. To stimulate these receptors, our bodies produce molecules called endocannabinoids which are structurally similar to the cannabis plant. Cannabis is one of the plants humans have cultivated and co-evolved with for over 5,000 years, creating a bond that will continue to heal us as we continue to evolve.

The Work

In learning to call on the medicine of the oracles of the cannabis plant and beyond, you will work with animals, crystal spirits, goddesses, sacred geometry, natural forces, and a number of powerful integration techniques; these must be approached with reverence and willingness to accept assistance. With time, you may find that it is also possible to call upon the power of the deck itself when you are not around the cards for their specific guidance and request. As all things in the universe have the same molecular building blocks, which are the atom – the deck can become a guide to communicate with the divine through your life force energy, reminding you that you are always connected to the answers you seek. It is these truths that have been passed down for eons, and these truths which could open the door to your future.

The Suits

Meta Arcana

Major Arcana cards are the foundation of the tarot deck. We merge the traditional tarot suit with the Meta Arcana. Each card in the major archetypes of the traditional Rider-Waite-Smith deck will embrace a new quantum possibility, enriched with symbolism to activate the hidden power within. Meet your new cannabis oracles...

Physical Suit

The Physical suit represents the daily halls of learning and brings you beyond the physical into deeper wisdom. Each action is designed to bring your awareness to the physical body. Sometimes we need more than guidance to make change and this suit will appear when it is time to do more than listen.

Cannabis Suit

These cards are the oracle's guide to consumption, these cards can guide you through a consumption ritual with the plant spirit in a variety of ways. This will include knowing the strength of your dose, what to do if you take too much, and getting familiar with the endocannabinoid system within your nervous system.

Orcacle Suit

May your cup overflow! In these cards, and goddess, Orishas, voodoo queens, and deities of African cultures debut powerful feminine and sacred masculine energy into your readings. These oracles have been forgotten by many and they each carry a transformative energy you can receive. It is important to understand the value of balance in the sacred energies when it comes to working with the oracles If you ask, be prepared for it to be given.

Integration Suit

Integration is the embodiment of the wisdom, realizations, and revelations that you've received during your spiritual path. The integration rituals help you expand your consciousness and create a new way to work with the plant spirit. This suit is used when you are ready to do rituals and integrate the shadow and includes detailed instructions and specific manifestations to help you get to the other side of common core issues humanity carries. These techniques can be used with or without cannabis.

Culture Suit

These teachings can be used to address broader issues that may come from one's own personal or cultural trauma. This suit will address how you can integrate lessons into everyday life with practical actions and meditations. Expanding into the metaphysical, this suit will showcase new oracles and guides that may appear to you if you call upon their energy.

Card Meanings:
Meta
Arcana

Vry

Vry allows you to merge with the innocence that surrounds you. Every new encounter is an experience that brings the potential to restore the unshakeable faith you held as a child, when freedom was never an afterthought. Vry dances freely under a disco ball on the dance floor, uninhibited because she believes in the spirit of things happening for their highest good. Here is the freedom to trust yourself before someone makes you doubt yourself. The past cannot be changed so she dances in the present while creating her future with a smile on her face. The dog dances beside her as a symbol of protection. Vry holds a cannabis leaf in one hand, which represents her open heart and innocence. From her other hand, a streaming pillar of light emerges like a wand.

This card arrives when the veil begins to lift and your biocomputer begins to deprogram with the cannabis plant spirit's guidance. If you receive Vry in a reading, ask yourself: What's the best thing that can happen today? How does it get any better than this? Am I afraid to ask for what I want because of the risk of rejection or denial? Release fear and believe your higher self—the higher plant spirit is guiding you to not fail.

VRY
Freedom

MANIFESTEER
Creation

Manifesteer

Clarity comes to the Manifesteer when they define in crystal clear terms what they have carried in from Vry. The Manifesteer knows how to co-create with the four elements to conjure the environment and desires best suited for their time in this realm. The Manifesteer tells you it is time to stand in your "power pose." It is not time for another vision board, it is time for action! The planning phase is over, and the phone is ringing—pick up and accept the infinite possibilities.

The infinity symbol repeats throughout the curtains of flowers, symbolizing endless opportunity. You didn't come here to fail, and you can always tap into the never-ending flow of energy within yourself. It is time to sow your seeds and build the garden bed. When the Manifesteer shows up, you are being asked to challenge yourself. Consider the following: Am I being clear in my co-creation? The difference between a desire and a manifestation is a plan of action!

The Witchdoctor

The throne of the Witch Doctor is covered by her long hair, full of secret wisdom passed down from her ancestors. The darkness brings the friendship of one's inner shadow which all witches know sits within the truth. Life is as fruitful as a well-tended plant, and behind the Witch Doctor hang drying buds and sacred rubies for protection. She shows you that the truth always comes out and seeks from the seat of the soul. She is always aware of her crown and connection to the source.

The Witch Doctor keeps at her feet a moon box that is slightly open, filled with magic, spirituality, and ancient African tools. Challenge yourself to tap into your wealth of intuition to bring in the balance you are seeking. She is the old soul who feels the energy of her non-physical guides surrounding her. Respect the Witch Doctor and say a prayer for her help to get a glimpse of a world unknown. Slow down and listen to your inner voice—what is yours will never pass you by. If you receive the Witch Doctor, consider the following: Befriend your Shadow; trust your intuition. Everyone has a shadow self—are you running from yours?

THE WITCH DOCTOR
Wisdom

SARAUNIYA UWA
Nurture

Sarauniya Uwa

The matriarch of her kingdom, the queen mother embodies nurturing in its purest form. She sits in nature to remind us to nurture the hidden wounds we all carry deep inside. Sarauniya Uwa teaches you that, to be the mother of the kingdom, you must nurture yourself or you will repeat lessons more than needed. Fill your cup to fill those of others.Sarauniya Uwa asks how you are nurturing your relationships with others and yourself.

The ancient wisdom passed down from the tree deity is that nature is our eternal mother. She will provide us with the seeds of abundance if we are willing to be in harmony with the natural cycles of the universe. There is always a reason to celebrate because nature is always in a cycle of rebirth.

Sarauniya Uwa keeps a special surprise up her caftan sleeve, giving a crooked grin that makes your heart flutter. If you receive Sarauniya, ask yourself: Do you feel guilty for receiving pleasure? Step into nature and journal a celebration rampage where you celebrate all day—every little thing from maintaining your morning routine to making a new one.

Sarki

Stability is an obvious foundation of Sarki's throne. He sits with pride and confidence, knowing he has the support of Sarauniya Uwa. He gives out inspiration to others, encouraging them to believe in themselves. Under his robe, you see glimpses of silver armor, as he must "always be prepared." He carries a staff made from the stalk of a hemp plant. He does not doubt himself and will deliver a stern warning if you fail to carry out your commitments, especially those made to yourself.

Sarki appears to always be surprised when he asks you "Who gave you permission to stop believing in yourself?" The time is now; this is the sign. Sarki not only has the support of his physical allies, but also that of his ancestral guides, with whom he communes as he sits on the throne. It is time to take a pragmatic approach to your life in order to achieve success. There will always be limitations, but their limit has an endpoint.

If Sarki and the throne show up for you, ask yourself: Do I have issues with authority? It's time to speak up and use your voice to help someone like Sarki would. Place your tongue on the roof of your mouth and with your inner voice chant "Victory, victory, victory!" in your head for three full minutes!

SARKI
Stability

ADÚRÓṢINṢIN
Tradition

Adúrósinsin

Although many roads lead to the same place (the throne), they are all unique and powerful. Traditions keep our legacy alive, and through our studentss, we pass down the gifts of song, recipes—even this deck!

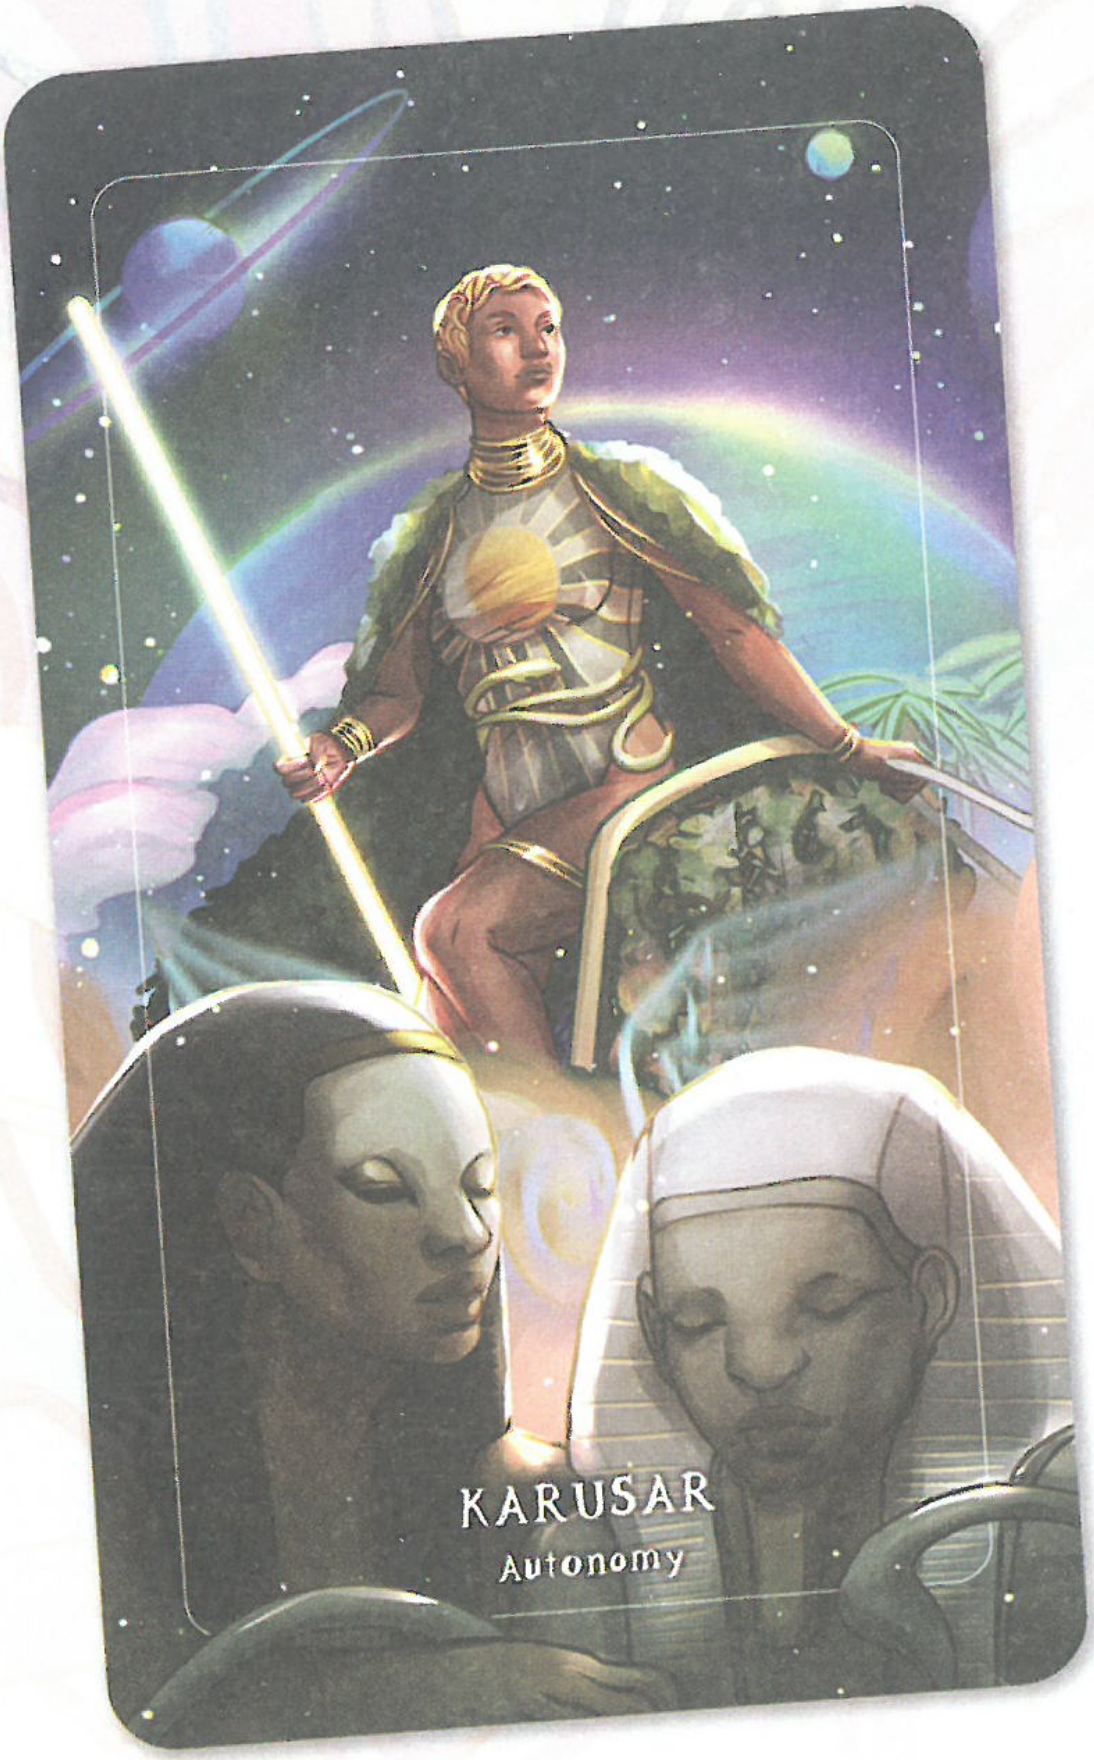
Adúrósinsin comes to you when you are asked to recognize the importance of the connection we have with every heartbeat of each person on the planet. In the crown sits a cannabis leaf with a rose quartz heart, resting over a large owl feather. The rose quartz has a spiral etched into the crystal which serves to remind you of the continuity of cosmic forces. The cannabis leaf heralds the energy of the heart space and expands the mind's programming to go deeper into learning. Adúrósinsin seeks authenticity and integrity in order to fully live this human experience. When this card appears, ask yourself: Where do my truths lie? Can I make meditation a daily self-care ritual? Do I see value in cultural traditions? Am I ready to experience the benefits of being disciplined?

Alabasisepo

Alabasisepo means "union," and as the traditional card of the Lovers, we see harmony and love represented as the two bodies dance in front of a stage with a winged band. Both aspects of the lovers dances uninhibited as the ground around them sprouts two cannabis plants: one female and one male. Only the female produces the fruit, but the union is the foundation. This card appears to you when the balance of a union needs to be balanced—this could be a union within yourself or a union with another spirit. You see this represented in the man's face as he smiles towards his partner—he has transferred the love of sharing trust from his parents to his lover. This card reassures you that you have outgrown these previous bonds that may not be rooted in foundation, and that you can move forward with true love in your heart.

Alabasisepo has come forward to teach oneness in relationships. Not all relationships are romantic, and this card reminds you to look at your friendships and extended family, too. If this card comes forward, you may need to ask yourself: Who showed me what the structure of relationships can look like? Do I compromise my morals, authenticity, or happiness for others?

ALABAṢIṢEPỌ
Union



KARUSAR
Autonomy

Karusar

This being is the sum of the cards that came before. She carries the wand of Vry, the veil behind the Witch Doctor, the snake belt from the Manifesteer, the jewelry chains from Sarki, and the sphinxes' union from the Alabasisepo. This is the card for the sign of Cancer, which helps us to learn how to use the power of the mind in disciplining emotions.

The Karusar appears when it is time to accept your emotions; there is nowhere else to run to because the Karusar only brings success. You are in charge of yourself and steer the wheels of your chariot. The wave behind the chariot represents the momentum that can come as you continue on your path—you can ride it, or let it consume you. Listen to your intuition and find the best path for yourself to move forward, bravely and with faith that you have created the emotional future you want. As with all sevens in symbolism, the main message is do not give up! If this card has come to you, maybe ask yourself: What is the outcome I am seeking? Do I have the self-confidence to ride this wave? Am I being distracted from my true passions by people or energies I need to cut out? Do I need to release a past relationship or learned pattern?

Hisabi

In the Hisabi card, a graceful woman stands with a lion arching over her head. Above her sits an infinity symbol, while the giant head of the lion takes up the upper portion of the card. It could easily swallow her but instead is in awe of her gentleness. Hisabi reminds us that having courage doesn't mean you don't feel fear; it means you have confidence in your innate abilities. The lion doesn't second guess its animal instincts, so this card emerges to remind you of your inner strength. Balance must be maintained on both ends between not harming the lion or being swallowed by it but if someone or something has upset you, take a slow walk through the pride land and hunt down what is inside of you instead of attacking other prey. It takes strength to be compassionate.

If Hisabi has graced you with her presence, you are being asked to relax. Stop moving forward with a momentum that continues to bring complaints and instead move forward with one that brings solutions. Only you can give yourself forgiveness when it comes to someone who may have let their animal side out. Ask yourself: Can I let my tears be healers of my timeline? Do I feel intimidated around others as if I don't have the same lion spirit? Do I believe I am more than just the label I place on myself?

HISABI
Accountability

ANCHORITA
Solitude

Anchorita

Salt cleanses Anchorita's energy as they pass from community to isolation. A plant beside the door aides naturally in their purification For reflection, Anchorita requires solitude; when this card appears, it's time for you to take some time to be alone in order to unlock something in your subconscious mind. It is time to awaken the inner world with the outer world by dream walking, astral traveling, and meditating. The lesson this card brings is that although we may be a community of the same, we must each walk our path alone. This is the card for taking a risk and doing what you truly want to do. There is no way to tell for sure what lies ahead because the salt lamp only lights so much of the way, but when held close, it illuminates your inner heart space fully.

If Anchorita has shown up in your cards today, it is time to recharge in no-ones's company but your own. No one else can join you in your inner work, but you can always be on the lookout for a guide, spiritual teacher, or oracles. A journey of self-discovery is upon you, backed by your ancestors' vibrations and your higher self. Ask yourself: Am I afraid of the silence in my head? Do I find excuses to not meditate as a way to avoid my solitude?

Arziki Dabaran

Arziki Dabaran measures the variables of energy coming from you. This wheel resembles the teachings of the cosmograms and medicine wheel. Following the sun, we enter the wheel in the east and exit the wheel in the west. The north and south represent our ascension and descension within the extremes of the wheel vortex. The oracle of rebirth rises on one side of the wheel as the oracle of chaos rides down the other, showing that not always will you want a situation to last and vice versa, but that is the cycle of life. Life is a constant change in luck, relationships, finances, homes, and lifestyle. How you react to change is the key here—do you fall into chaos, or rise?

When this card emerges, it reminds you that each event in your life could be a blessing; maybe you just got through your dark night of the soul and this card is a reassurance that the sun is shining. You are loved, guided, and protected in all ways, always. If Arziki Dabaran has come into your spread today, ask yourself: How do I react to change? Do I meet opportunities when presented with them, or do I make excuses to resist the change?

ARZIKI DABARAN
Gratitude

TSABTA
clarity

Tsabta

Tsabta sits on the stage at a musical concert. He has carefully planted seeds and is ready to tend to the Garden's growth. Tsabta's long brown hair flows out from his crown made of rose quartz and his smile shows off his carefree attitude that no one is going to stop him from enjoying life. In his hands sit the scales of justice, symbolizing healing knowledge of the true checks and balances of the universe. He has been to the other side of the wheel and walks both in the spirit realm and in the physical realm. He communes with the cannabis plant's spirit for many reasons and can lead you to find out what programs you are repeating that are not benefiting your life. The truth is relative to your perspective, and there are always three sides to every story—both sides, and the truth. Tsabta will be quick to play devil's advocate to show you that he sees no right or wrong and only seeks the truth.

You are responsible for where you are and it's time to be honest with yourself. This card appears with the suggestion of legal decisions or counsel in your favor. Take up the space and fight for your voice to be heard. If Tsabta has shown himself to you, ask yourself: Have I taken responsibility for all my choices?

Qaddamarwa

Qaddamarwa appears upside down, hanging from a sturdy cannabis plant root. This suggests she is channeling through her feet rather than her crown. Her hands are unseen, and her face is serene and graceful. It is time to accept yourself for where you are and who you are in this life. The woman is tied up with an added shibari element to represent surrender and that she is accepting of this period of reflection.

Qaddamarwa appears when you need to flip your perspective—stand on your head, invert, simply get upside down and then look at the present moment. Are you noticing things you haven't seen before? You are independent, and sometimes that means following your heart despite what other people think of you. Qaddamarwa expresses that it is okay to be vulnerable sometimes. Perhaps you are living according to the expectations of mentors in your life instead of living life firsthand. It is time to return to Tsabta and take responsibility for the vibrations you're sending out. This card can also appear when you are being too hard on yourself. Surrender brings many rewards. If Qaddamarwa appears for you, it is time to ask the following: Can I see this issue from another perspective?

QADDAMARWA
Initiation

IKU
Transformation

Iku

Iku rides in and clears away the old to make space for a new vibration to come in. Without Iku, the cycle would never be complete. Iku is death in the Yoruba tradition, but death is not the end. The flag symbolizes creation and the light spirit body which continues endlessly as Iku rides through the veils of time-space. The pegasus symbolizes this ability to fly to the ends of time and space, resulting in true freedom; it has mastered getting beyond the self and carries Iku at the time of humanity's greatest need—rebirth. Cannabis flowers and leaves sprinkle the ground as offerings, left by many spirits before who have accepted the change.

If you accept Iku when she appears in a spread, you are fully free to release something and step into the new light. It is okay to mourn and grieve the things of the past, but you must create your future when Iku arrives and says it is time to move on. If Iku shows up for you, it is time to consider: Do I run programs of the past more than those of the future? Do I know how to embrace the unknown?

Ifarada

The moon box of the Witch Doctor has spilled open to reveal a pool of water. The cannabis leaf (earth) and the flower of life (fire/creation) represent the spirits awakening in the physical body. This is the card for the spiritual sign of Sagittarians, because it combines wisdom with that special "off the cuff" behavior. Ifarada is the problem solver with many solutions. This card represents a balance between our primal, animal nature and our divine, spiritual side. Your favorite Sagittarian has big "When did you forget you were divine?!" energy, and more often than not, they are the source of your growth experiences. Being in the human experience requires enthusiasm first, then discipline, and later, dedication. Ifarada often signals a time for travel which is essential to the soul.

This card appears when the bridge between your higher self and your human self jokingly pokes at you to take that trip with your friends or lover. It reminds you to not be so serious and remember that experience is sometimes the best teacher on your journey of awakening. The opportunities for growth are infinite in your career, your life, your business, and especially your wealth. If Ifarada appears, it is time to ask yourself: Is it time to go back to Iku and make more changes and allow myself to let go?

IFARADA
Healing

ETAN
Seduction

Etan

Etan, traditionally the Devil, holds up her right hand for her masculine energy to let go of behaviors that hamper our spiritual purpose; her left hand holds a matchstick, symbolizing the ability to receive the many pleasures of life.

Etan is the seductress of our mind and the veil of illusion that separates us from our spiritual path. We are seduced by the temptation to control others in order to achieve our desired outcome, but just as the chains hang loosely on the beings, we are able to slip away from Etan when needed. The power lies in the illusion that we are helpless. Etan appears when we are feeling "Why them, not me?" energy. All energy springs from the same source and reminds us that, even though we appear chained, we are all heading to the same destination. The journey can be walked together if you let go of the need to control every aspect outside of yourself.

To deny your purpose and wish for other gifts is to deny your spiritual power and can realign you to opportunities on a lower frequency than you wanted. Stop feeding the momentum of negativity and spiral into a gratitude rampage! If Etan has appeared to you, it is time to ask yourself: Do I feel chained to someone, something, or someplace?

Gogoro

Sudden changes occur in our everyday life and result in our awakening to another level of self. Gogoro brings the change you feared in Etan. Gogoro reminds us that handling problems from a grounded perspective will always yield better results than charging in in a reckless manner, which could have dire consequences. Obelisks are placed on ley lines to harness the energy like lightning rods. Harness that energy when Gogoro appears and remember that change is the only constant. The universe will send you a wake-up call if you are not fulfilling what your higher self came here to do.

We can get lost in the material and become stuck, and then life gives us an experience for freedom. When Gogoro arrives, it is time to relinquish the old habits, thoughts, and programs that keep you a prisoner in your ivory tower. View something from a different perspective and allow for the full transmutation. If Gogoro appears in a spread for you, it is time to consider the following: Am I ready to have my plans turned upside down without a warning?

GOGORO
Ego Death

IRAWO
Restoration

Irawo

The energy of water has memory and connects you to the unified field where the whole of the source resides. We all come from a creative energy, and within that energy is where you can find freedom. Behind them is the hemp stalk and the Nigerian Ibadan Malimbe. Irawo is a card of healing for both inner and outer purposes, which will alter as you go through the changes you encountered in Iku, Gogoro, Etan, and Ifarada. The stars have always provided us with an infinite perspective and sense of possibility.

Irawo reminds you that your ancestors lived so that you would not have to ask permission to—you do not need permission to exist. Thousands had to love for you to be here. Conjure that feeling of having an overflowing vase and pour yourself a sense of relief. It has already happened. If Irawo has appeared in your spread today, please ask yourself: Am I showing gratitude every day? Do I believe it will all work out for me in the end? Do I believe in my blessings?

Osupa

Here we get a long-awaited glimpse at the dark side of the moon, which is a reflection of the collective memory. Osupa is the card of dreams and illuminates the inner world of your fears, hopes, and feelings. The brain is very powerful, and it cannot decipher the difference between when you imagine an event and when you experience it. The imagination is one of the powerful tools in your metaphysical toolbox and you can use it as a means of healing or of replaying old programming that keeps you stuck in a lower frequency. Your subconscious resides between your temples. They are called temples for a reason.

Osupa works with the heart—this is home to the seat of the soul. Osupa works during the night, when your dreams and visions come alive fully in the light of the moon—and the darkness. It is time to turn your attention within and start to work on your dream escape. This is the card of the dreamer, the creative, the artist, the musician, and the free spirit. It is time to listen to the symbolism coming forth in your dreams and journal. When Osupa appears in your spread, it is time to ask yourself: Am I ignoring my shadow self? Am I having nightmares because of unresolved issues that I keep replaying?

OSUPA
Vision

OORUN
Joy and Light

Oorun

The outlook is bright, and you have a clear vision of how to move forward without the fears operating in Osupa. Anything the light touches will be an opportunity for creation and action. Oorun signifies the confidence to gallop with the sun at your back, your highest self enthusiastically pushing you onward. The cannabis flowers show the need to express yourself, as in all cards that represent the sign of Leo.

Oorun appears when there is a tremendous success in your vortex, because he signifies the inner child's innocence and power that create unlimited flow and joy. Oorun embodies the carefree spirit of Vry, the intention of the Manifesteer, the wisdom of the Witch Doctor and the fire of Sarauniya Uwa. He also includes the gumption of Sarki; the perception of Adúrósinsin; the understanding of the role other souls play in your life, as in Alabasisepo; and the self-control of your emotions, as in Karusar.

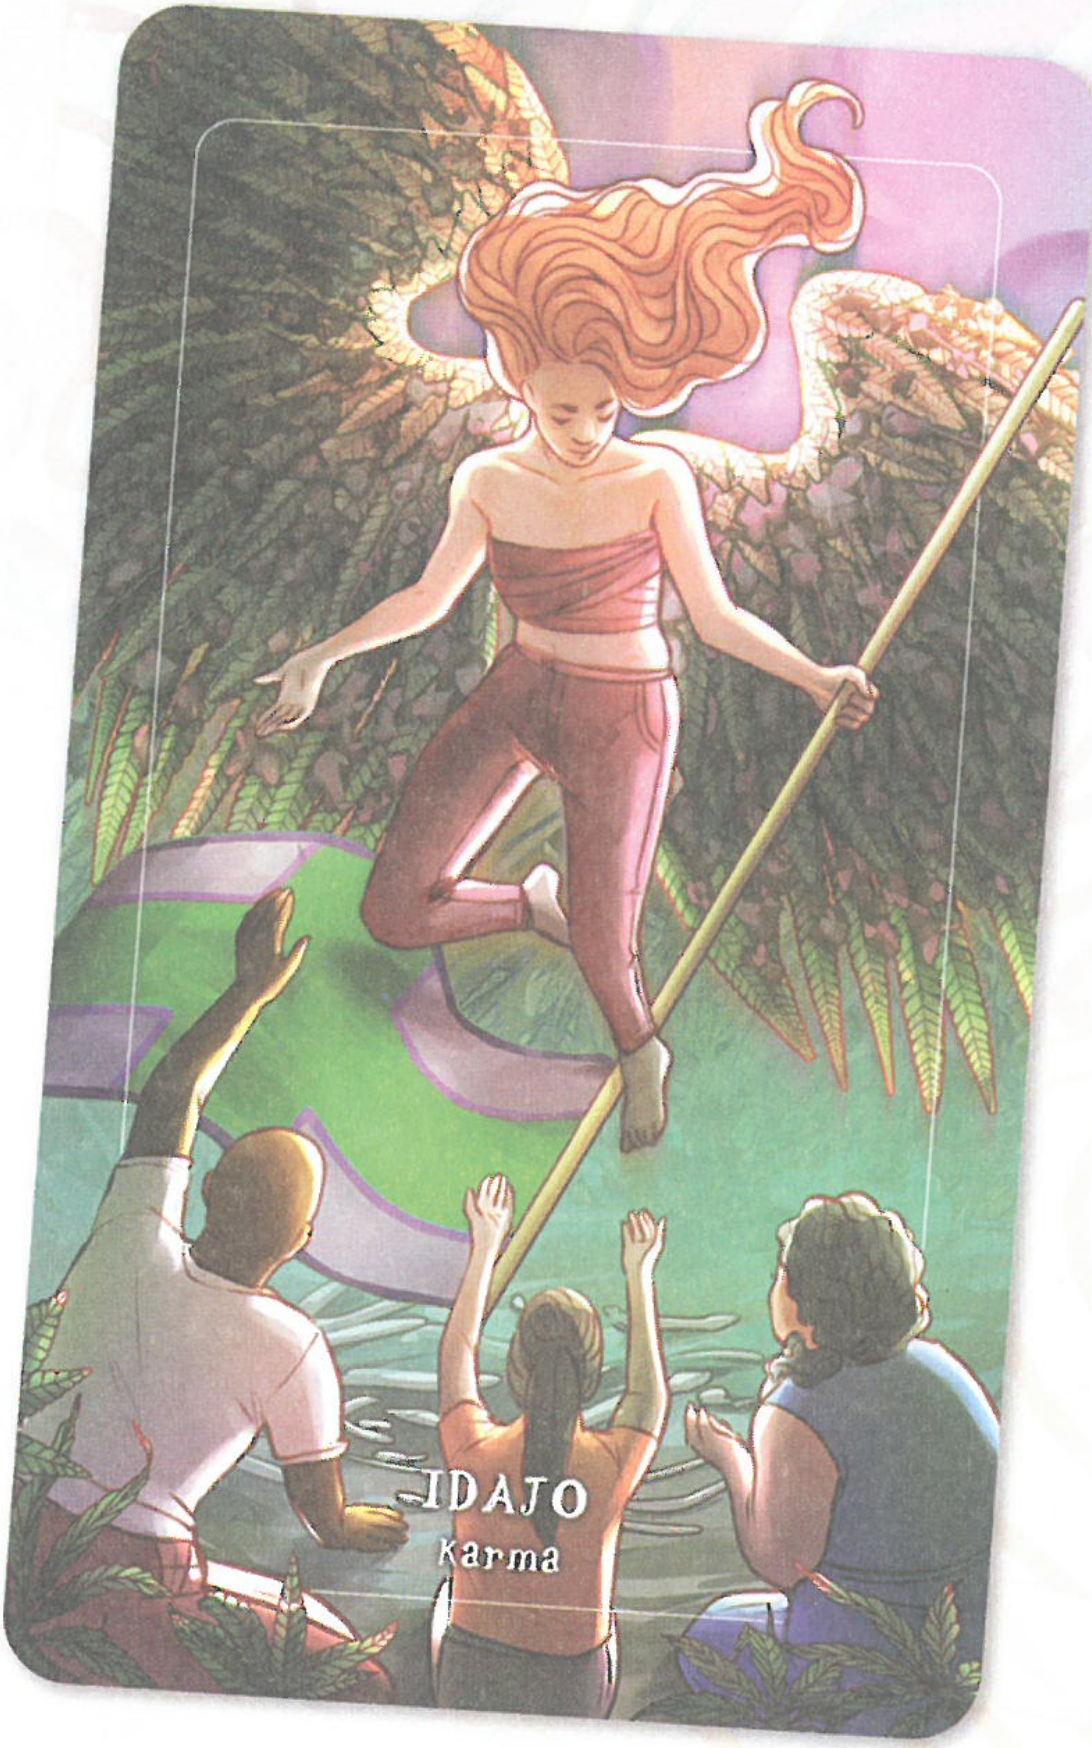
Oorun is a card for being happy with yourself and with your life. It represents the inner knowledge that there are lessons and blessings; that you need to fully appreciate the gifts life is giving you; that you should be aware that happiness is a choice. If Oorun has appeared in your cards today, it is time to ask: Am I surrounded by people who raise my spirit to its highest potential?

Idajo

Idajo shows the quantum potential symbolized on the flag the angel is carrying, indicating that on some level, you have already manifested what it is you are harvesting. This card emerges when a time of clarity and a time for you to be aware, focused, and ready to bask in your accomplishments

Idajo reminds you that not everyone will be happy about your harvest, and that in itself is okay. That does not take away from your harvest and does not add to theirs. If Idajo appears, it is time to stop judging yourself, and others, so hard. The beautiful green and yellow wings open up your heart center and enable you to fully embrace the fruits that come from nourishing the seeds you planted in the workings of Vry.

If this card appears for you, it is time to ask yourself: Am I bringing the past into this harvest, meaning my crop isn't as good as it could be? Have I shut down my heart? Am I ready to recreate myself?



IDAJO
Karma

AGBAYE
Bliss

Agbaye

This is the reminder that all things are in motion, including the breath and the intention we carry with each inhale. Agbaye calls for you to integrate and realize you are another manifestation of the energy of the universe.

Agbaye shows up when you are ready for lasting success. Travel to different parts of the world may be on the horizon when this card appears. It also expresses the feeling of fulfillment; the floating figure symbolizes that, when you apply all the lessons, you should work with the elements, and listen to the guides. You will be whole.

If Agbaye appears in your cards today, it is time to ask: What makes me feel complete? Have I completed a cycle? Am I ready for lasting success?

Physical Suit

Cloud Meditation

LOOK UP - "I am strong and healthy thanks to physical movement."

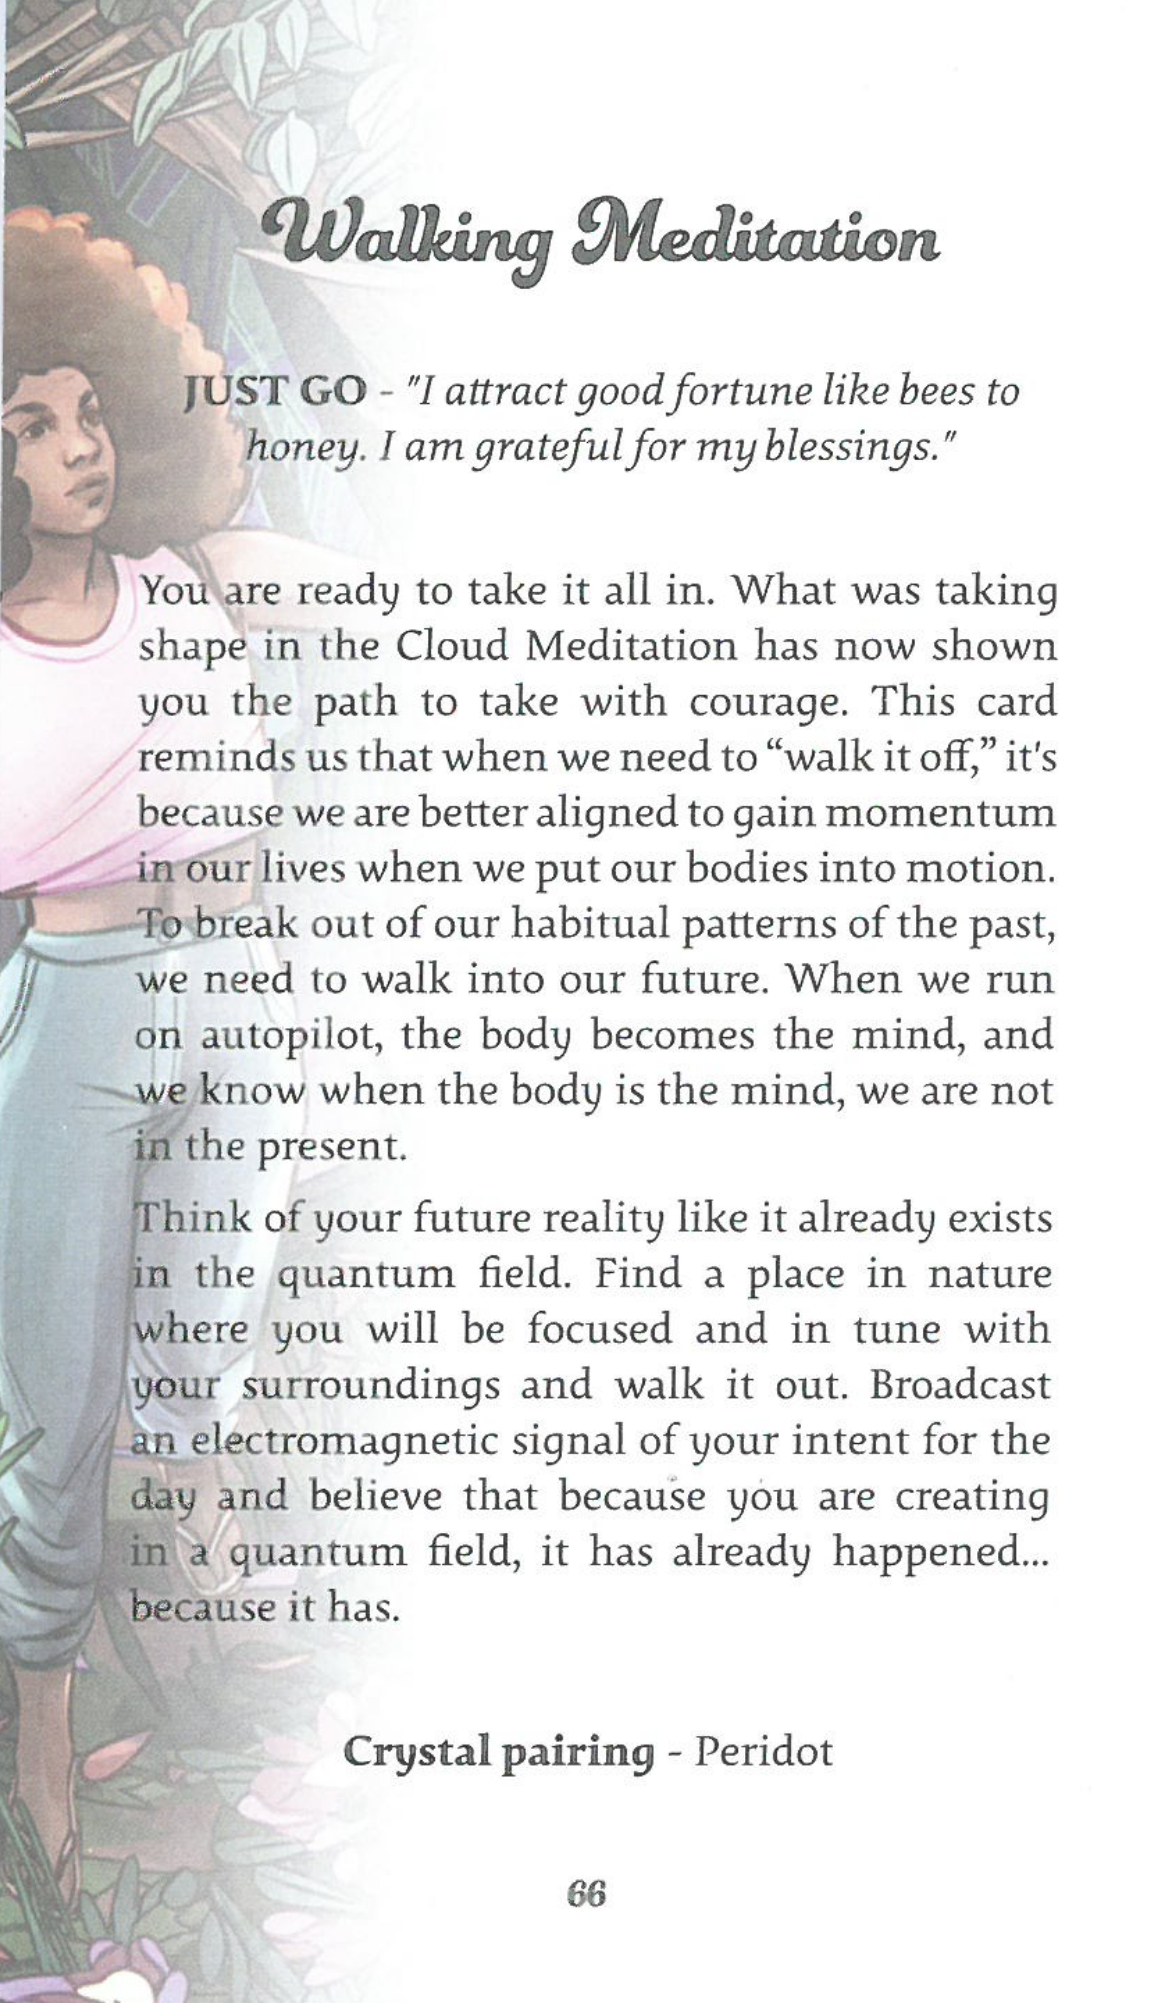
Your judgment is getting clouded by greed and overindulgence. The Cloud Meditation asks you to find the deep inner child who used to find shapes in the clouds and nourish them. Spend time looking up at the sky; take in the wealth that is available to pour down on the crops you've planted and grow the seeds of abundance. Wealth is not only material: it is love, compassion, freedom, and joy that bring alignment and flow.

When the Cloud Meditation comes to you, you are asked to let go and believe the winds will carry your seeds of hope to favorable ground. Success is on the horizon. Take time to stare at the clouds and let yourself receive. Go outside, lie down, and look up at the sky for at least 11 minutes in a space where you can focus undisturbed. Notice how it changes, and what emotions, thoughts, and downloads arise for you. Don't rush to journal your thoughts; simply let them drift by like clouds.

Crystal pairing - Chalcopyrite



Walking Meditation

JUST GO - "I attract good fortune like bees to honey. I am grateful for my blessings."

You are ready to take it all in. What was taking shape in the Cloud Meditation has now shown you the path to take with courage. This card reminds us that when we need to "walk it off," it's because we are better aligned to gain momentum in our lives when we put our bodies into motion. To break out of our habitual patterns of the past, we need to walk into our future. When we run on autopilot, the body becomes the mind, and we know when the body is the mind, we are not in the present.

Think of your future reality like it already exists in the quantum field. Find a place in nature where you will be focused and in tune with your surroundings and walk it out. Broadcast an electromagnetic signal of your intent for the day and believe that because you are creating in a quantum field, it has already happened... because it has.

Crystal pairing - Peridot

Silent Retreat

SILENCE - "My heart is open to receiving and giving love as I transform my inner world so my outer world reflects."

This is the card that will keep showing up if you do not listen. The figure in the card sits with legs crossed and headphones on and a contented smile on their face. The heart space radiates out a bright green color, and you feel a calming presence wash over you as you silence yourself. The silent retreat is a lesson in physical strength like no other. You must tame your tongue and resist the need to correct, explain, or detail.

When this card comes to you, it is important to see where you may be talking too much. Remaining silent will bring you more alignment.

Crystal pairing - Watermelon tourmaline

Creation Solo

SOLO MAGICK - "I flow through life on the waves of nurturing waters. I ride in peace with myself and the love surrounding me."

Creation energy is the energy of self-love and pleasure. The figure in the card raises their hands while water flows upward, all around them and into the sky. This card shows itself when you need to give yourself some tender loving care. Maybe that looks like a spa day, a massage, retail therapy, or simply staying in bed doing what you want. This card asks you to take time for yourself, away from busy work, family, friends, and loved ones who expect you to be available. It is okay to reschedule that meeting or cancel that lunch for your reality.

Be mindful and resist the temptation to fall into creation energy alone as part of a routine. We all live on this living being together.

Crystal pairing - Sodalite

Creation Partnered

SEX MAGICK - "I integrate and accept change and I align with the cycles of life."

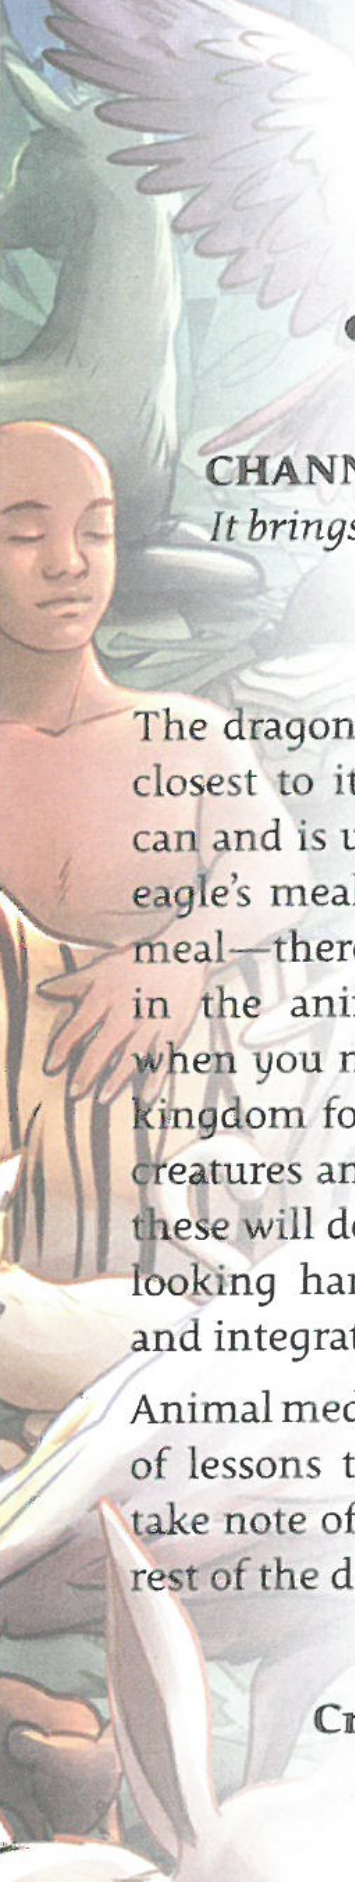
This card emerges when you need to collaborate. Each person has one hand hidden so as to not show all their cards—it's as if they have talents they do not know of because they only emerge when working together. Partnered energy is powerful, whether it is love, friendship, or business. When you combine your intention with someone else's intention and the two are aligned, working in tune with your intention , the results are magnified. Just because you've known someone forever doesn't mean you can't give new people a chance.

Be open and honest with yourself and how you feel about collaboration. More often than not, if you have a problem with the partnership, it is a reflection of your inner struggle. Return to Creation Energy I – Solo Magick if this card continues to appear.

Crystal pairing - Fluorite



Animal Energy

CHANNEL - "I am not jealous of anyone. It brings me joy to see others experiencing happiness and joy."

The dragonfly is not jealous that the eagle flies closest to its creator; he simply flies where he can and is unbothered by the birds of prey. The eagle's meal is not the same as the dragonfly's meal—therefore, there is no construct of jealousy in the animal kingdom. This card emerges when you need to ask the oracles of the animal kingdom for their guidance and medicine. The creatures and animals exhibit habitual patterns; these will deliver messages of healing to anyone looking hard enough to observe their lessons and integrate them into their life.

Animal medicine is always free and has hundreds of lessons to impart. Drop in on yourself and take note of all the creatures you see during the rest of the day.

Crystal pairing - Tiger's eye

Glamor Energy

GLAM - "My confidence is solid as stone and I take positive action to manifest my dreams."

It's time to put on your best dress and attend the best party you've ever been invited to. This is your red carpet, your premiere, fashion debut, and catwalk for the oracle gawds! Sometimes you don't know where the next whatever is going to come from, but you can still look like a million dollars—and you just might shift your energy into a different feeling and alignment.

Pyrite is the companion for this card as it was mistaken for gold by many people—you may not be the gold, but you can look like it. Bringing your vessel into a physical state of elevated emotion instantly helps the mind and body sync up. So, even if you aren't going anywhere, get glammed up. You know it will make you feel better.

Crystal pairing - Pyrite

Future Love Letter

I LOVE YOU - "I am incredibly lucky to have plenty of money to spare."

Imagine every moment that your future self is looking at your present moment and saying "YES! You got this! Don't give up—something amazing is right around the corner!"

Well, that's exactly what they're doing, and you can bet that your future self is already smiling as you pull this card. The card holds a mirror with a journal placed on top. You see an opportunity to bring yourself some clarity, and you are encouraged to write as that future self.

When this card appears, it reminds you to write a letter of encouragement from your future self. To journey deeply, write a letter to yourself from 5 years in the future, 15 years in the future, and 25 years in the future. This card emerges at a time when you are ready to pause and reflect on what the mirror has shown up to this point in time.

Crystal pairing - Jade

Food Meditation

I CAN - "I am a conduit for prosperity. I receive inspiration from the smallest acts."

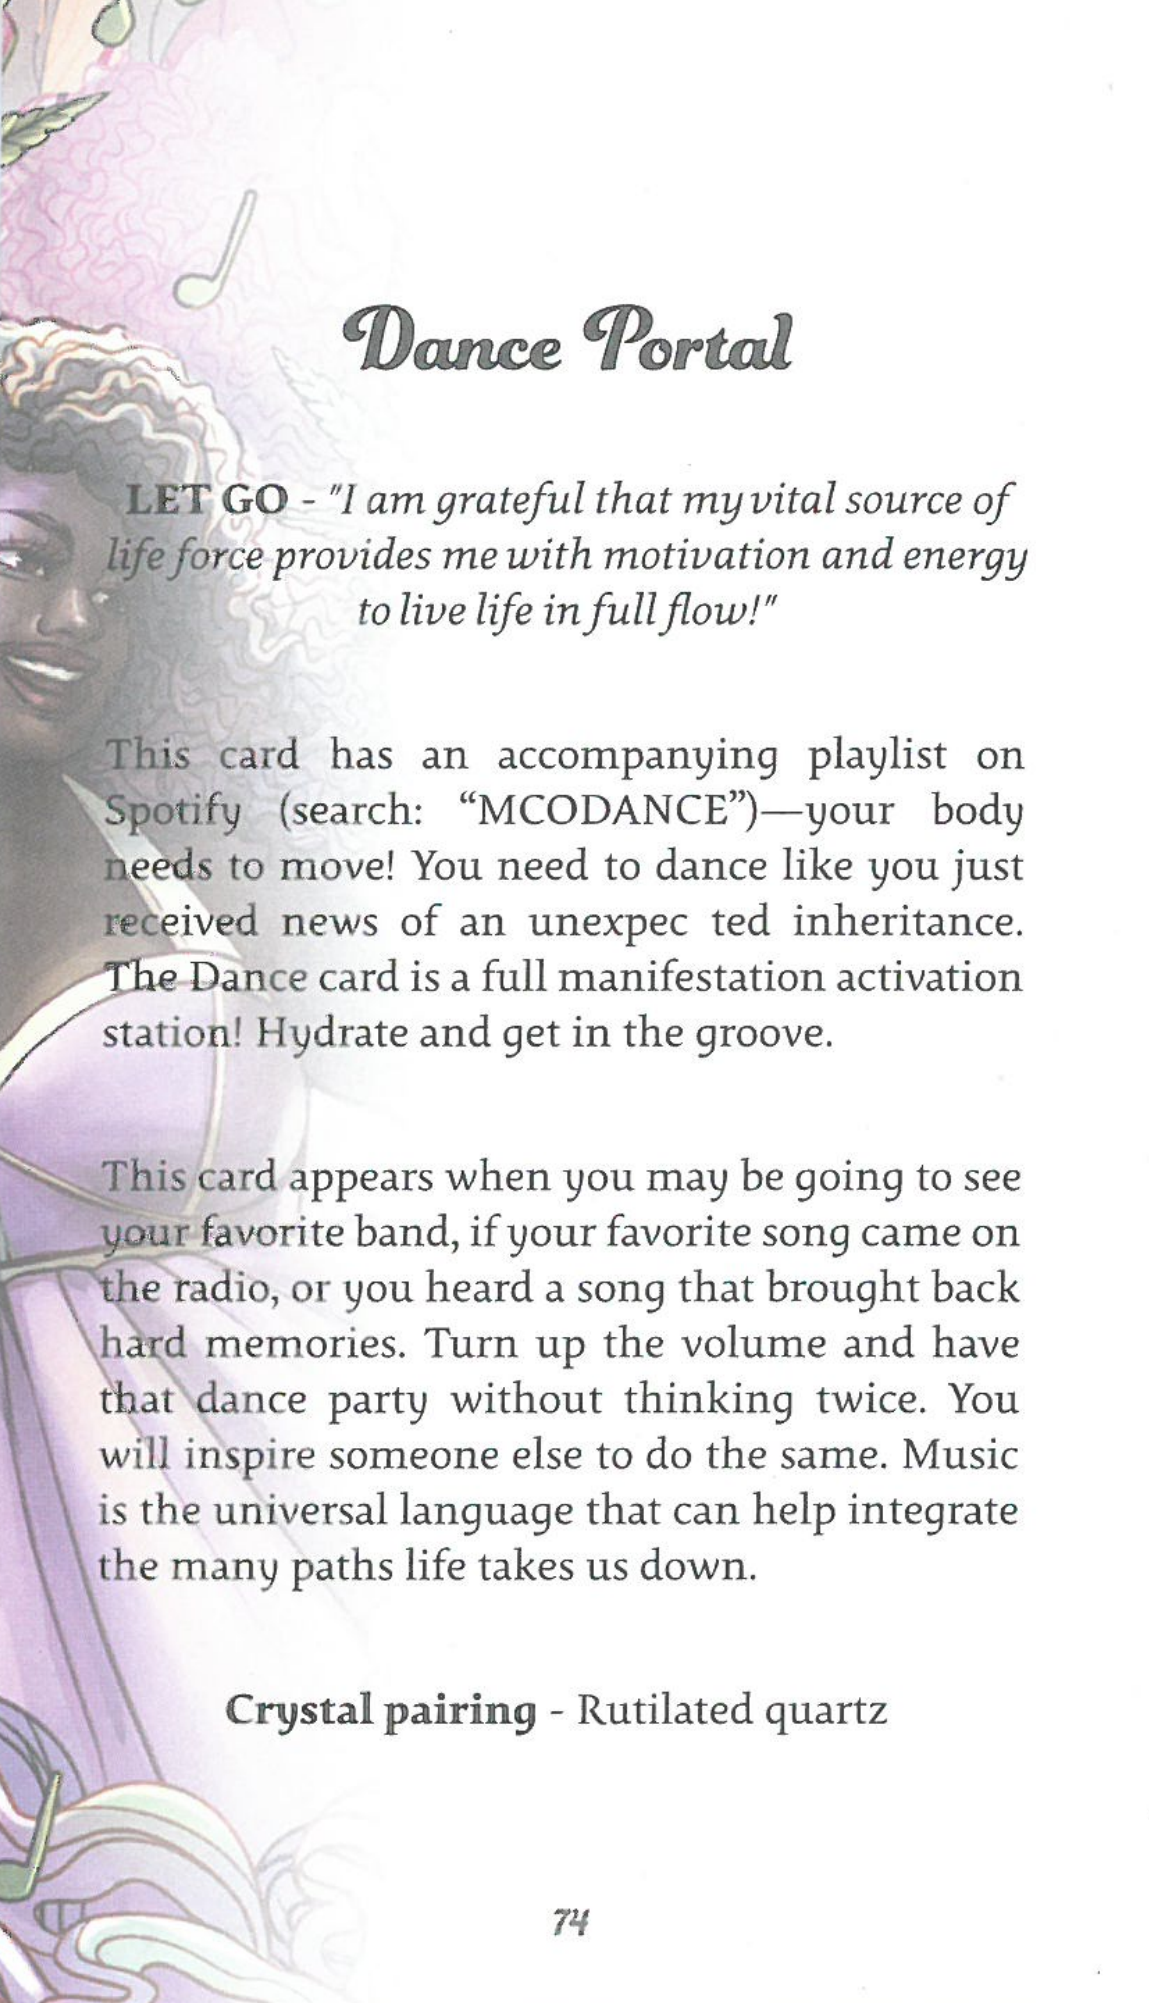
The smallest act today will ripple out and dynamically cast your journey into alignment. Our bodies are biocomputers which need certain inputs of code to be high performing. Find something no smaller than a grape and no larger than a strawberry: take one small bite out of it and let it sit in your mouth for 10 seconds before you chew. These seconds will touch beyond your taste buds and bring more awareness to how powerful your mouth is. You can create prosperity in your life, but you can easily speak it away. Be mindful of what you put into your mouth and what comes out.

If this card is accompanied by the Cannabis suit, your guides may be trying to reach you about something important and you need to lighten up.

Crystal pairing - Fire opal



Dance Portal

LET GO - "I am grateful that my vital source of life force provides me with motivation and energy to live life in full flow!"

This card has an accompanying playlist on Spotify (search: "MCODANCE")—your body needs to move! You need to dance like you just received news of an unexpec ted inheritance. The Dance card is a full manifestation activation station! Hydrate and get in the groove.

This card appears when you may be going to see your favorite band, if your favorite song came on the radio, or you heard a song that brought back hard memories. Turn up the volume and have that dance party without thinking twice. You will inspire someone else to do the same. Music is the universal language that can help integrate the many paths life takes us down.

Crystal pairing - Rutilated quartz

Gratitude Rampage

IT'S ALREADY HAPPENED - "I earn unlimited abundance doing what I love."

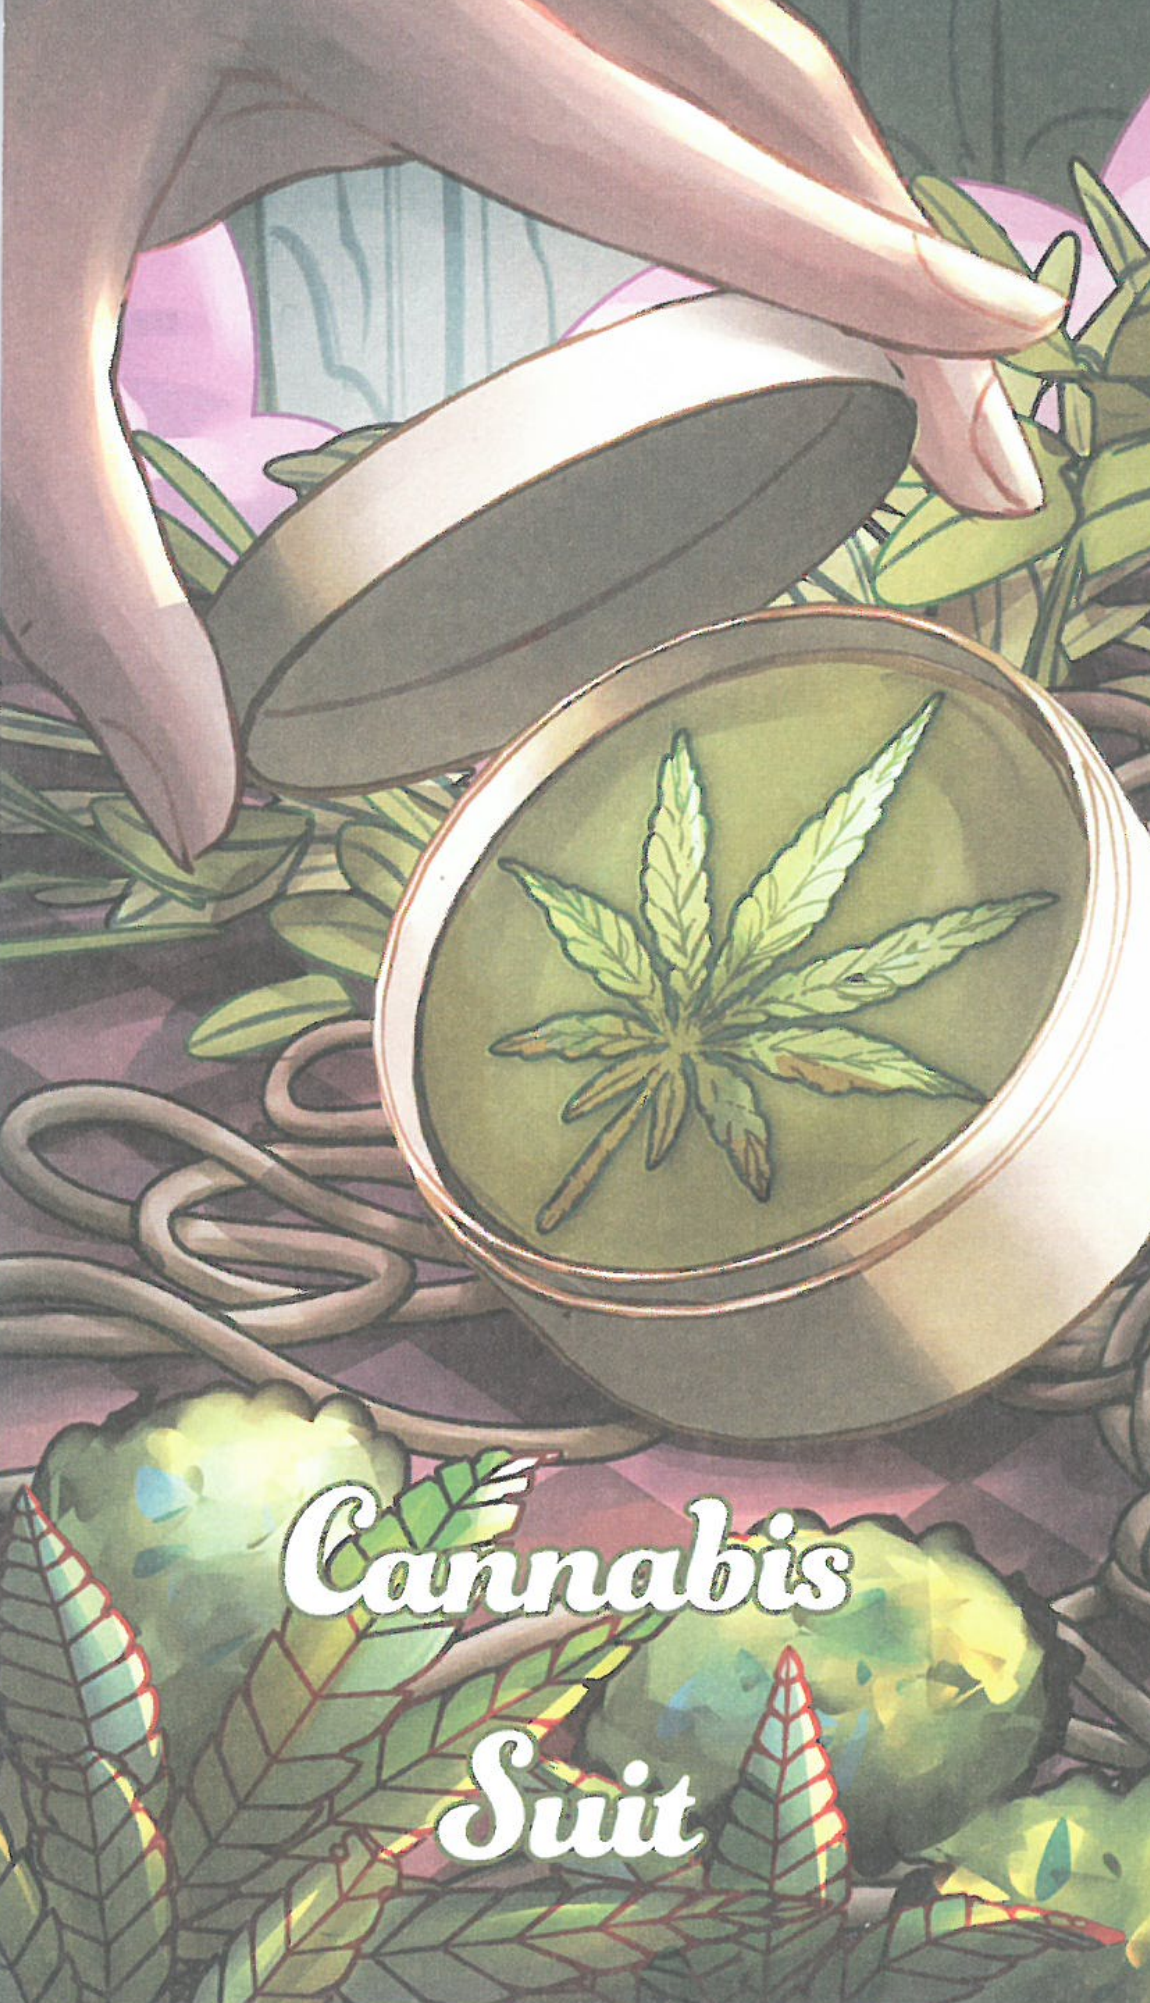
If this card has shown up for you, it's time for a rampage! You express gratitude daily, but this is a time to RAGE it. Write, voice memo, or video yourself detailing all the things you are grateful for in your life. Starting with the smallest items in your vicinity, name everything you can see and expand out into each portion of your home, community, city, country, continent, planet, universe, and beyond!

If this card keeps showing up for you, consider installing a daily practice that includes expressing gratitude in a way that feels in flow. Showing gratitude to the self is also very important, so be sure to say "thank you" to yourself as well.

Crystal pairing - Emerald



Cannabis
Suit

Spirit

Act - A single spliff rises out of the cloud in a hand with the message to take action! The Spliff resembles the beginning of a project and appears as a living object with the beautiful leaves of the sacred tobacco plant, cannabis leaves sprouting out around it.

Beyond the plans in your head, the Spliff shows up when the ethereal needs to become physical. Spliff people thrive on challenges, just like Aries of the Zodiac, and they will pursue every quest with enthusiasm. The crystal castle in the background shows that this is a time for doing and no longer for thinking. The smoke clouds clear, signifying strength, great sensual power, and psychic energy.

This card could indicate upcoming travel and fewer restrictions in your everyday life. Spliff types are known to bring enthusiasm to every situation—even mundane daily tasks—and thrive on challenges.

Plant spirit - Lettuce

Alchemy

Choices - In the Alchemy card, we see the bong in a glass case on the wall, and another that is free in the hand of the being. The person depicted has to make a decision. The Bong brings the alchemy of the four elements together, as shown by the table altar beside the person. Water, the earth spirit, the air and the fire all have to be present for the alchemy to work properly and connect to the higher realms.

When this card appears, you are being reminded that you always have a choice. Decisions come before actions and the Bong represents weighing your alternatives. If this card has come to you, commune with the plant spirit pairing to determine progress, plan the future, and find the ambition to make it happen as fast as you like.

Plant spirit - Lavender

Wizard

Balance - In the Wizard card, we see how a person has transformed after applying the lessons learned. The wizard in the card is standing on the pier, watching the waves carry off the sand. He maintains a sense of balance, knowing that what is his will come to him and will not pass him by. The wizard stands with three joints lined up, representing moving into the next stages of a situation.

The Wizard always shows up when it is time to travel. While he stands with his back to us, we must wait for him to turn around, symbolizing the patience of the joint. The momentum to turn the ground herbs into a wand signifies growth and a rite of passage delivered by the Wizard.

Plant spirit - Basil

Hermetic

Create - In the Edible card, we see a mortar, a pestle, fresh herbs, and fruit laid out. Two dehydrated fruit squares are lined on the table. It's time to create your own medicine and experiment in the kitchen with different nootropics and plants. The Edible Oracle is akin to Thoth, the father of writing and magick. It is said in legend that he has left several emerald tablets for humanity to find so they can know how to truly live. Two of these tablets have yet to be revealed to humanity and won't be until we evolve our consciousness enough to fully integrate the teachings of the last lessons needed to grow.

Listen to the plants around you and take your medicine into your own hands.

Plant spirit - Marigold

Abracadabra

Connect - Abracadabra is said to be a magical series of numbers, and if you write it out in a certain way, it will bring miracles into your life. The literal translation is "I will create as I speak." In this card, you are encouraged to speak to your heart. The Topical Oracle tells you to rub your heart and chest with love. Speak to your heart in a way that creates a gratitude rampage! Take the topic of your choice and rub the spelling of "Abracadabra" onto your heart chakra and just be—be still, be here.

For extra integration, do the pairing below and read all the cards in the spread.

Plant spirit - Aloe

Conjuring

Legacy - Many ancient cultures believed that wisdom is passed down through smoke and that when you inhale the smoke, you can receive messages from those who are your guides and ancestors. It was said that ancestors would communicate through the smoke when you exhaled in the form of shapes and other symbols. The smoke produced from vaporizing the plant spirit is not any better than when you use fire, but the quality of your message may be better received when this channel is used, as it can result in clear channeling. The Vape card arrives when you are ready to talk with someone about your plant spirit communications. Maybe you keep this in the dark from some and are "out" to others.

When this card appears with the Thrive-Briety card, it is time to get in the flow. Find a body of water to cleanse attachments that may be weighing heavy on your heart.

Plant spirit - Lemon balm

Equalizer

Highest Self - When we hear this, we think "focus," "center," "direct," and this is what the Equalizer brings to your life. Here we see a glistening milky-looking drip similar to honey. And as bees work together to make the precious honey, we know it is all for the queen. We see the honeycomb pattern deep within the card and what looks like a vortex at the center. This card is an alert to get focused. It's time to stop manifesting and start taking action on your manifestations. You already have everything you need, and you know that this will pass.

Some cultures believe our highest selves give the lessons we will have in life once we inhabit our human form; this is so that we can evolve our consciousness back to the seventh-dimensional realm where it resides.

When this card appears for you, it is time to take "one to the face," and that may mean a hard truth or loving accountability.

Plant spirit - Chamomile

Witch

Metaverse - The metaphysical witch is unlike any other witch as the basis of the craft exists in the metaverse, beyond the far reaches of the physical world. In the Witch card, we see a small cauldron, colored smoke emerging from the lid while a hand slowly drips down a magical concoction of herbs. Each herb together creates an elixir of the planet. A tincture is an extract of plant or animal material and contains a concentrated amount of herbal extracts.

This card appears when it's time to be very mindful of how you are delivering messages, thoughts, and your general vibrational output. Is your cauldron boiling over or sparkling? Are you producing thoughts that propel you into a ritual of a happy witch, or a sad witch, or badass boss witch? If this card appears beside the Food Meditation card, it is a sign to take note of how you are speaking to yourself and what you are feeding your body. It may be time to incorporate some supplements into your daily diet.

Plant spirit - Alfalfa

Magic

Alignment - As early as 660 B.C. in ancient China, carrageenan from seaweed was used to create a water-soluble lubricant. This was said to have been used for over a thousand years. When this card appears, it is a sign for some major self-work.

The mindset around pleasure has been steered towards shame for a very specific reason: If we could harness the true potential of creative energy, we might take complete control of our own lives. In this card, we see the hand has a small light emerging from the center of the palm and that the lines of palmistry are written in gold. The palms contain a chakra used and opened when channeling Reiki. This card may indicate there is some prosperity coming your way.

Plant spirit - Tongcat ali

Enchantment

Celebration - The Enchantment card encourages you to raise your glass, and in this glass are your plant spirit companions, transmuted into the water to deliver joy, dancing, and celebration. . We know through the study of epigenetics that it's the environment that signals the gene, and not the other way around. If our emotions are the end product of any experience in an environment, it is our emotions that turn the gene expression on and off. So, especially if you feel sad and this card has come to you: Toast to you and yours.

Create a "raised" emotion—an elevated environment—and shift. Ask the plant spirit of cannabis to work with you through your beverages and allow her enchanting wisdom to be received.

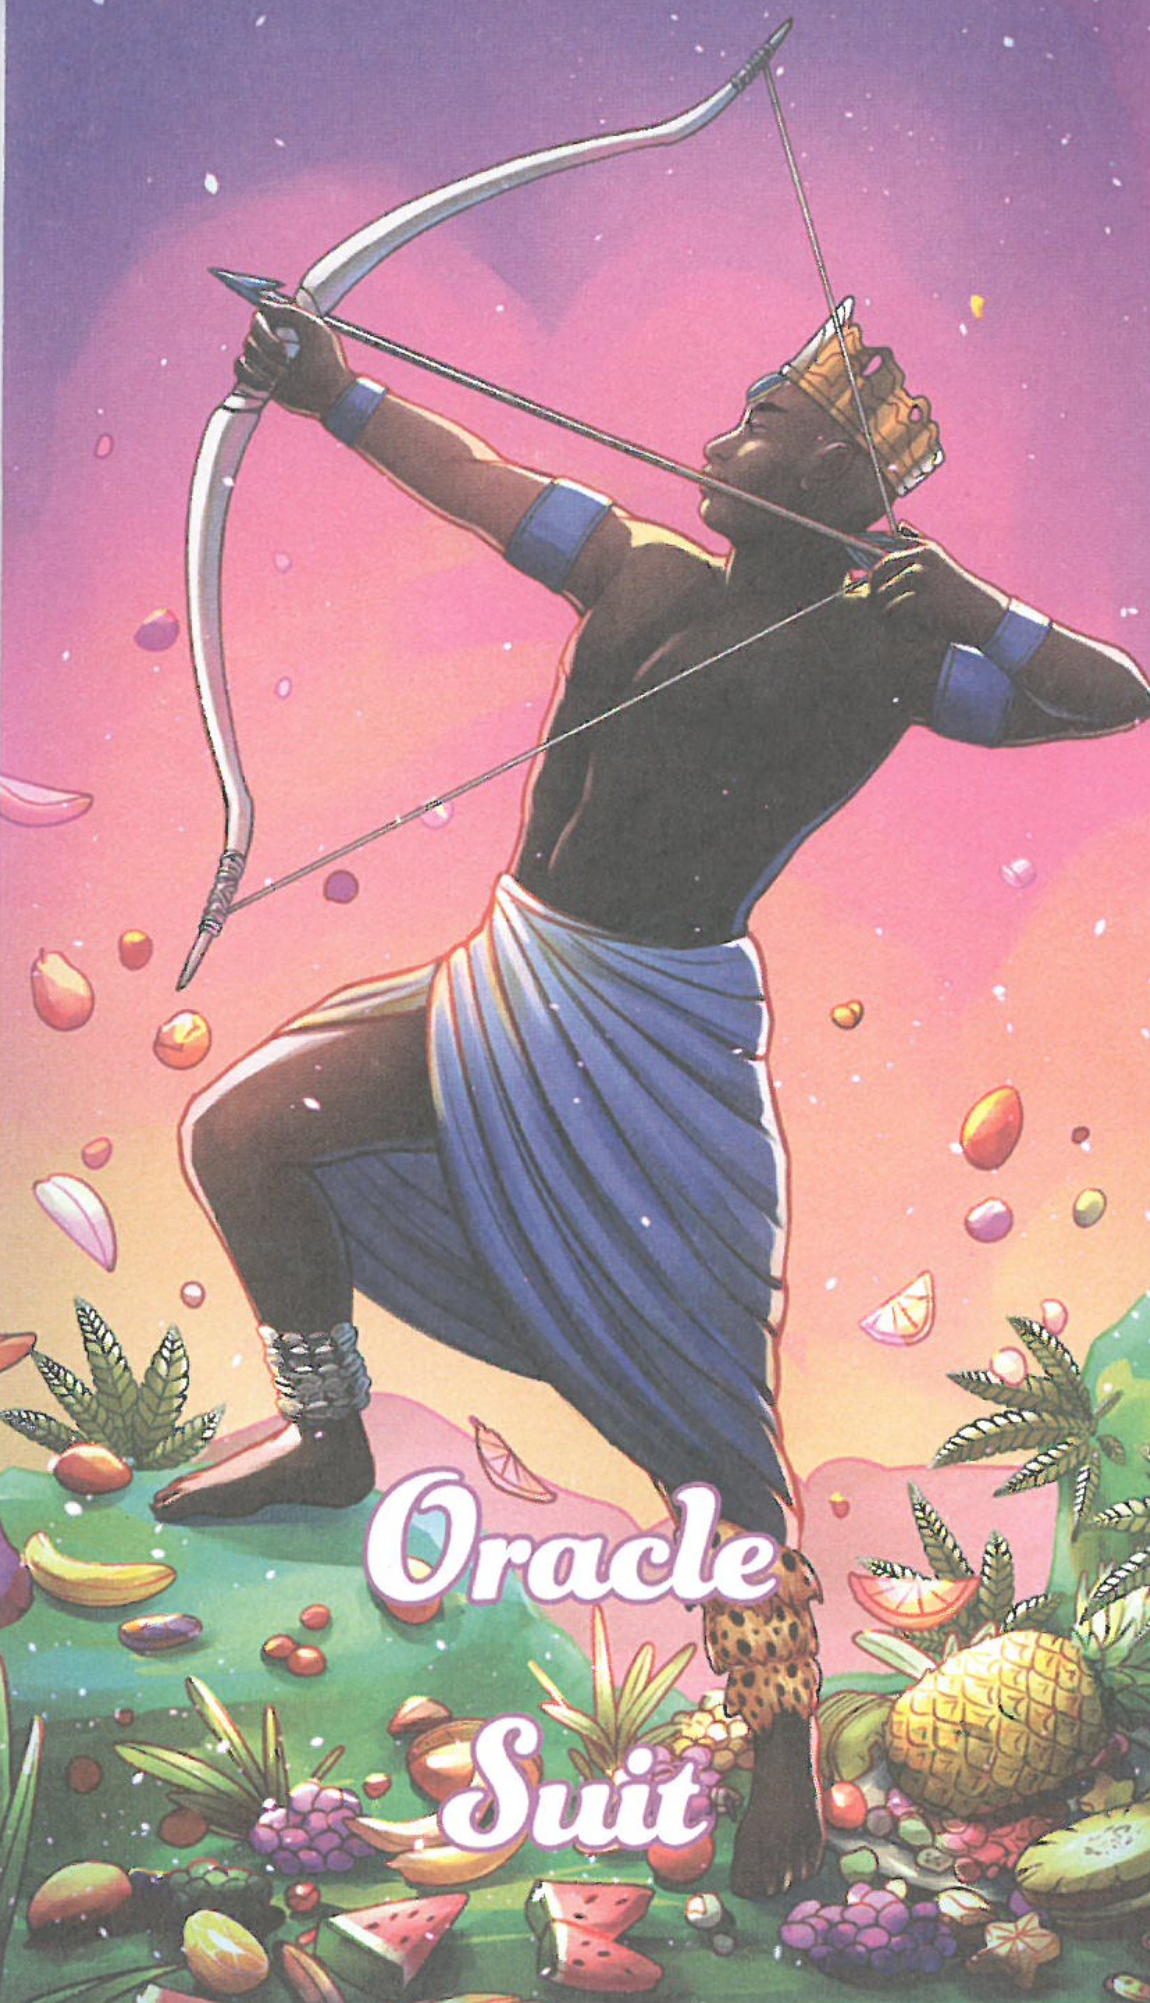
Plant spirit - Red clover

Sorcery

Revolution - The first modern inhaler was invented in the late 1700s and was paired with the plant spirit of the poppy. But this was not a new invention that humans had discovered for treatment. Hippocrates, a 5th century physician, used the term "aazein" to describe respiratory distress, and this is where we get the term "asthma." For at least 3,500 years, people have used aerosols to treat asthma symptoms, as in ancient China with the smoking of opium and the Greeks inhaling the smoke from burning herbs.

The message of this card is a reminder to breathe. The cannabis plant is a versatile consciousness and will work in a multitude of areas of your life. Since the beginning of civilization, we have had the tools within our natural environment to aid in the ailments we may encounter.

Plant spirit - Poppy



Oracle
Suit

Oshun

The suit begins with the power of the sword suit—Oshun rising out of the water in her bright yellow clothing with a sword of water piercing the sky. The ocean and the clouds seem to be connected and allow you to flow into a victorious alignment. Oshun brings the sword to you because it is time to stand up for justice. She rises effortlessly and reminds you that the strength of your ancestors is remembered in the water of your body. Oshun wears gold jewelry, brass bracelets, beads, mirrors, and elaborate fans and every aspect of the card is shiny! Around her are the elements of music, dance, fertility, and prosperity, and in the background, a grove of trees signifies her throne.

Yemaya

Yemaya is the river orisha of the Yoruba people of southwestern Nigeria. A queenly mermaid whose tail is covered by a seven-layered skirt to symbolize the seven seas; corals, crystals, tiny bells, and pearls adorn her outfit and her hair. A small cannabis wreath, as we saw in Agbaye, sits in her hand. This oracle's sacred number is the number seven, and her sacred animal is the peacock. Blue and white swirl around this card, creating a calming and contouring energy around you. Yemaya is known as the "Mother of All Living Things"—she aims to bring comfort and cleansing to all who encounter her. On her chest sits a cannabis leaf because she helps mortals with learning to love themselves and healing for the emotional body. The peacock represents the feet, and, of all birds, symbolizes the traditional depiction of the Phoenix—the legendary bird of resurrection that rises out of its own ashes.

When beside Jimla in a reading, Yemaya's powers are amplified. When this card appears, it is time to take a walk by the river and remind yourself that you too can rebuild yourself when the time comes to rise.

Oya

Oya is the Yoruban goddess of the weather, especially of powerful storms, tornadoes, lightning, fires, and rain. Oya means "wind warrior goddess." She is represented by the water buffalo and would carry the spirits of the dead to the underworld. Clairvoyance, intuition, and psychic abilities are the lessons of this card, and Oya urges you to listen to the winds of change whether you are ready or not. Legend states that Oya can call upon death and hold it off whenever she pleases.

Known as the "Great Mother of Witches," she comes to you when you feel you need to be protected. This might be when you are trying to protect or establish your business, which might be riding through some choppy waves at the moment. Remember: The storm will pass, and Oya will be there to gather the pieces and help you start anew if needed.

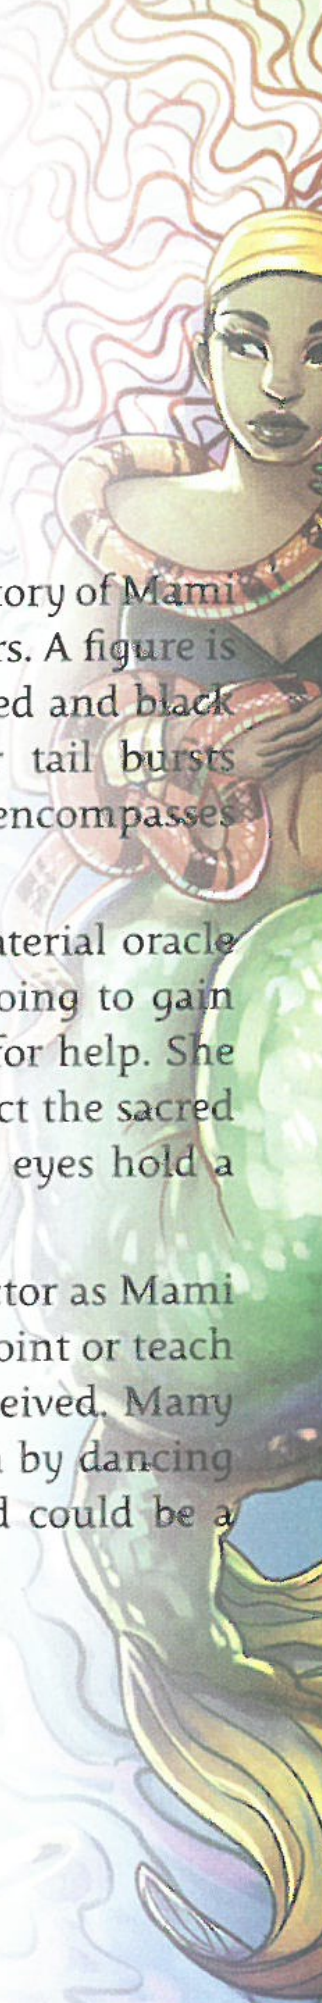
Nana Buruku

Swirls of purple grace the middle of this card and form into the massive gown worn by Nana Buruku. She is the grandmother keeper of the orisha oracles for the Fon people of Africa. She is revered as the most influential deity in Western Africa's theology. Her dress resembles a giant ball gown akin to Cinderella's, and she is believed to have given birth to the moon spirit Mawu, who we see in the upper right of the card. The sun spirit Lisa, who appears on the other side, is also a child of Nana Buruku. Nana Buruku is the original creator and Mawu-Lisa is the secondary. The large adornment of cowrie shells cover the goddess' neck and her headscarf. Her skin is leathery to show her age as the oldest orisha. In her hands is a sacred knife made out of bamboo, and in the other a terracotta-pot holds the secrets that your soul has kept.

When this card appears to you, it is time to remember that your essence is here long before your physical being.

If you are having issues with your maternal aspects, Nana Buruku comes forward to help with all these issues.

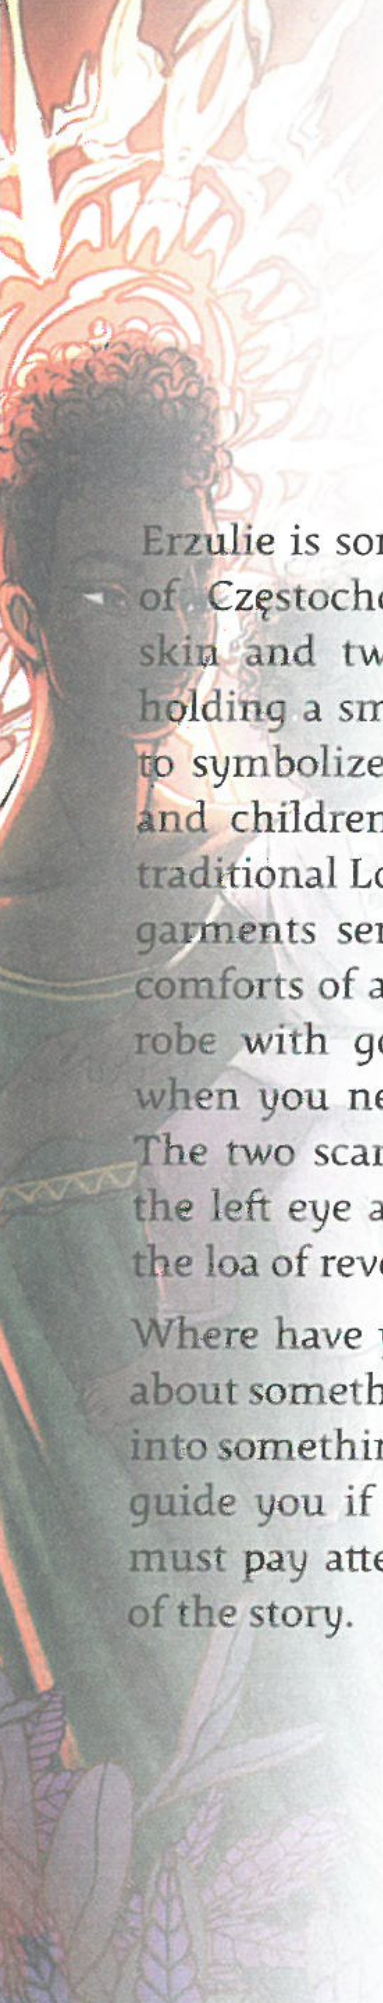
Mami Wata



The Dogon creation myth tells the story of Mami Wata and dates back over 4,000 years. A figure is floating in the ocean with a large red and black snake around her shoulders. Her tail bursts with emerald greens and her hair encompasses everything around her.

Mami Wata is the spiritual and material oracle and comes to you when you are going to gain something if you call upon her for help. She loves to help women and will protect the sacred waters around her at all costs. Her eyes hold a stern gaze that shines intensely.

The water in this card is a major factor as Mami Wata will use the water to prove a point or teach a lesson if her messages are not received. Many people seek the help of Mami Wata by dancing themselves into a trance. This card could be a sign of fertility.



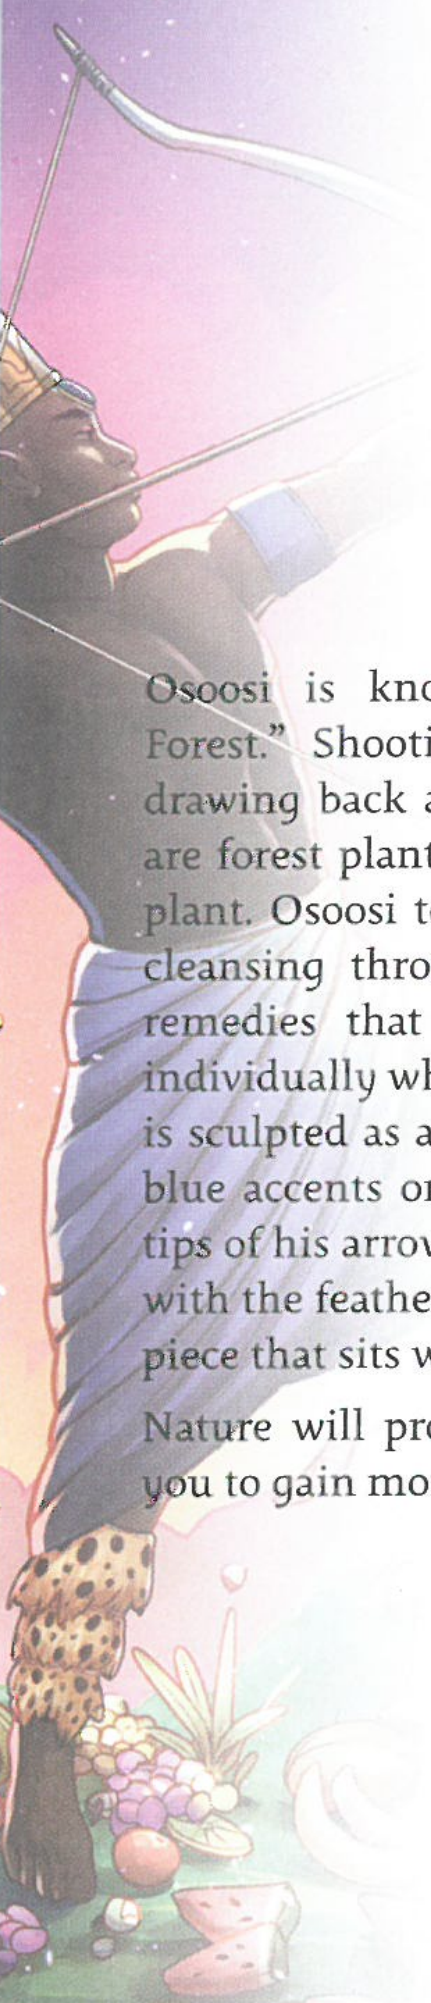
Erzulie

Erzulie is sometimes called the Black Madonna of Częstochowa and appears with her dark skin and two scars on her face. She is seen holding a small boy in her arms, Ti Jean Petro, to symbolize her fierce will to protect mothers and children. She is referred to as a "loa" in traditional Louisiana or Haitian Voodoo, and her garments serve to remind you of the creature comforts of an intricate, vintage, emerald green robe with golden detail. This card shows up when you need to look at every point of view. The two scars on her face, coming down from the left eye across the cheek, signify her being the loa of revenge and rage.

Where have you been angry or filled with rage about something? How can you shift that energy into something fierce yet nurturing? Erzulie will guide you if this card appears to you, but you must pay attention to every detail and all sides of the story.

Orun Mila

Orun Mila is often referred to as "Ifa" and saw the beginning of creation. He embodies wisdom and understanding through all destinies. He sits in front of a bright blue sky with his legs stretched out before him, a slight bend in the knee. He wears a yellow and green robe and sits as the "Great Diviner" with his cowrie shells beside him in a pile. In front of his lap sits a mirror with golden flakes on it. Where the shells fall, he creates a mark of one or two straight lines to decipher their message—something that has taken him many years of practice. He uses these readings to determine the outcome of any situation and comes to you when it is time for you to be called to action. Ifa is the path of the males in Nigerian divination, and the stern look on his face reminds you that he means business. He knows all the secrets about creation and a candle sits at the front of the card to symbolize this. He is immensely powerful—some say more powerful than other orishas. Orun Mila has his diving chain (opele) and his palm nuts around his seat to symbolize what he brought to humanity as a guide.

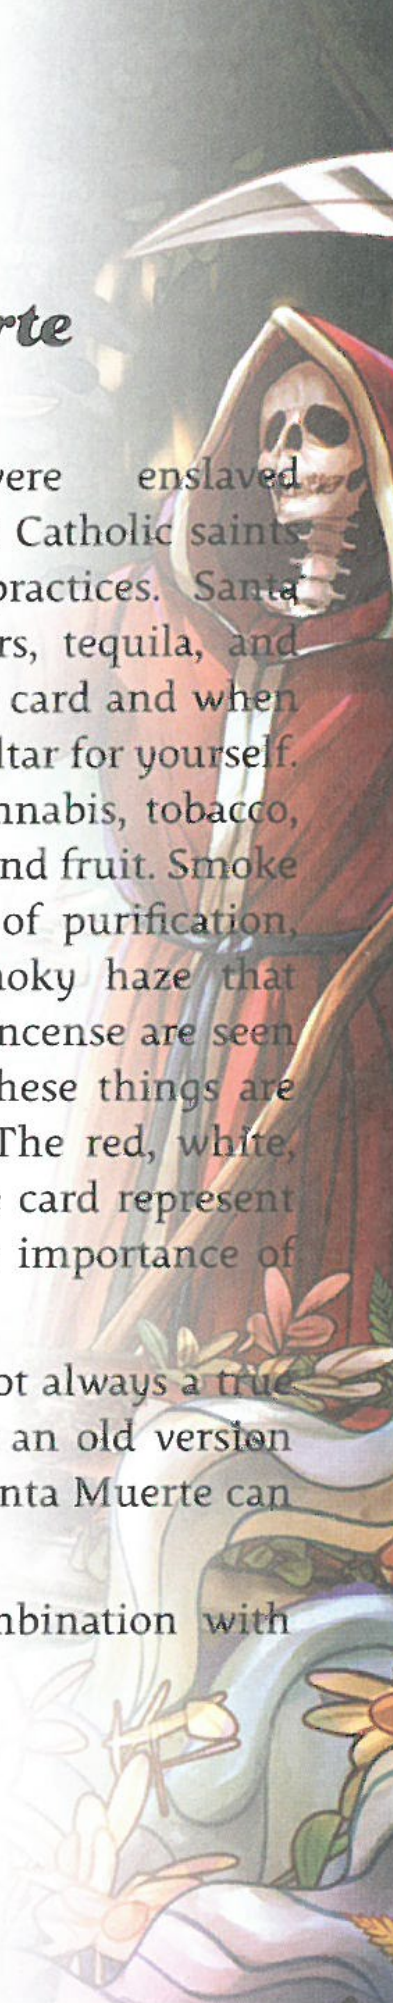


Osoosi

Osoosi is known as "the Magician of the Forest." Shooting left-handed, he stands tall, drawing back an arrow on his bow. At his feet are forest plants, including the sacred cannabis plant. Osoosi teaches that plants offer spiritual cleansing through herbal baths, jewelry, and remedies that can show us collectively and individually what the future may hold. His body is sculpted as a hunter and tracker, with bright blue accents on his dark, melanated skin. The tips of his arrows are blue like lapis lazuli, along with the feather atop his head—an entire crown piece that sits with a large lapis on his third eye.

Nature will provide symbols at every turn for you to gain more insight.

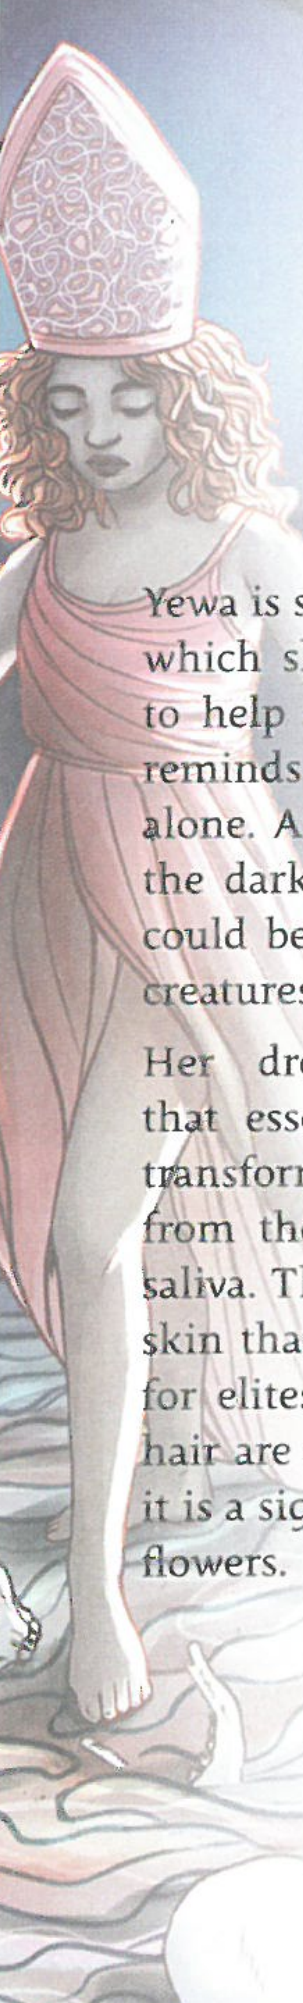
Santa Muerte



African peoples who were enslaved "rechristened" their deities into Catholic saints to maintain their religious practices. Santa Muerte is surrounded by cigars, tequila, and chocolate. This card is the Altar card and when it appears, it's time to create an altar for yourself. On the altar before her lies cannabis, tobacco, many colorful flowers, candles, and fruit. Smoke is blown over it as a practice of purification, and this is shown in the smoky haze that surrounds it. Bread, water, and incense are seen in abundance at her sides, as these things are considered essential offerings. The red, white, and gold candles aligned in the card represent candle magick symbolizing the importance of ritual.

Remind yourself that death is not always a true death—you can say goodbye to an old version or program, and this is where Santa Muerte can help.

Especially potent when in combination with Gogoro.



Yewa

Yewa is seen with her sword and horsetail whip, which she uses as a guide in the underworld to help souls to their final resting place. She reminds you that even in death, you are not alone. A guide will always present itself when the darkest hour seems to be upon you. This could be a dove, a goat, or owls, which are all creatures of Yewa.

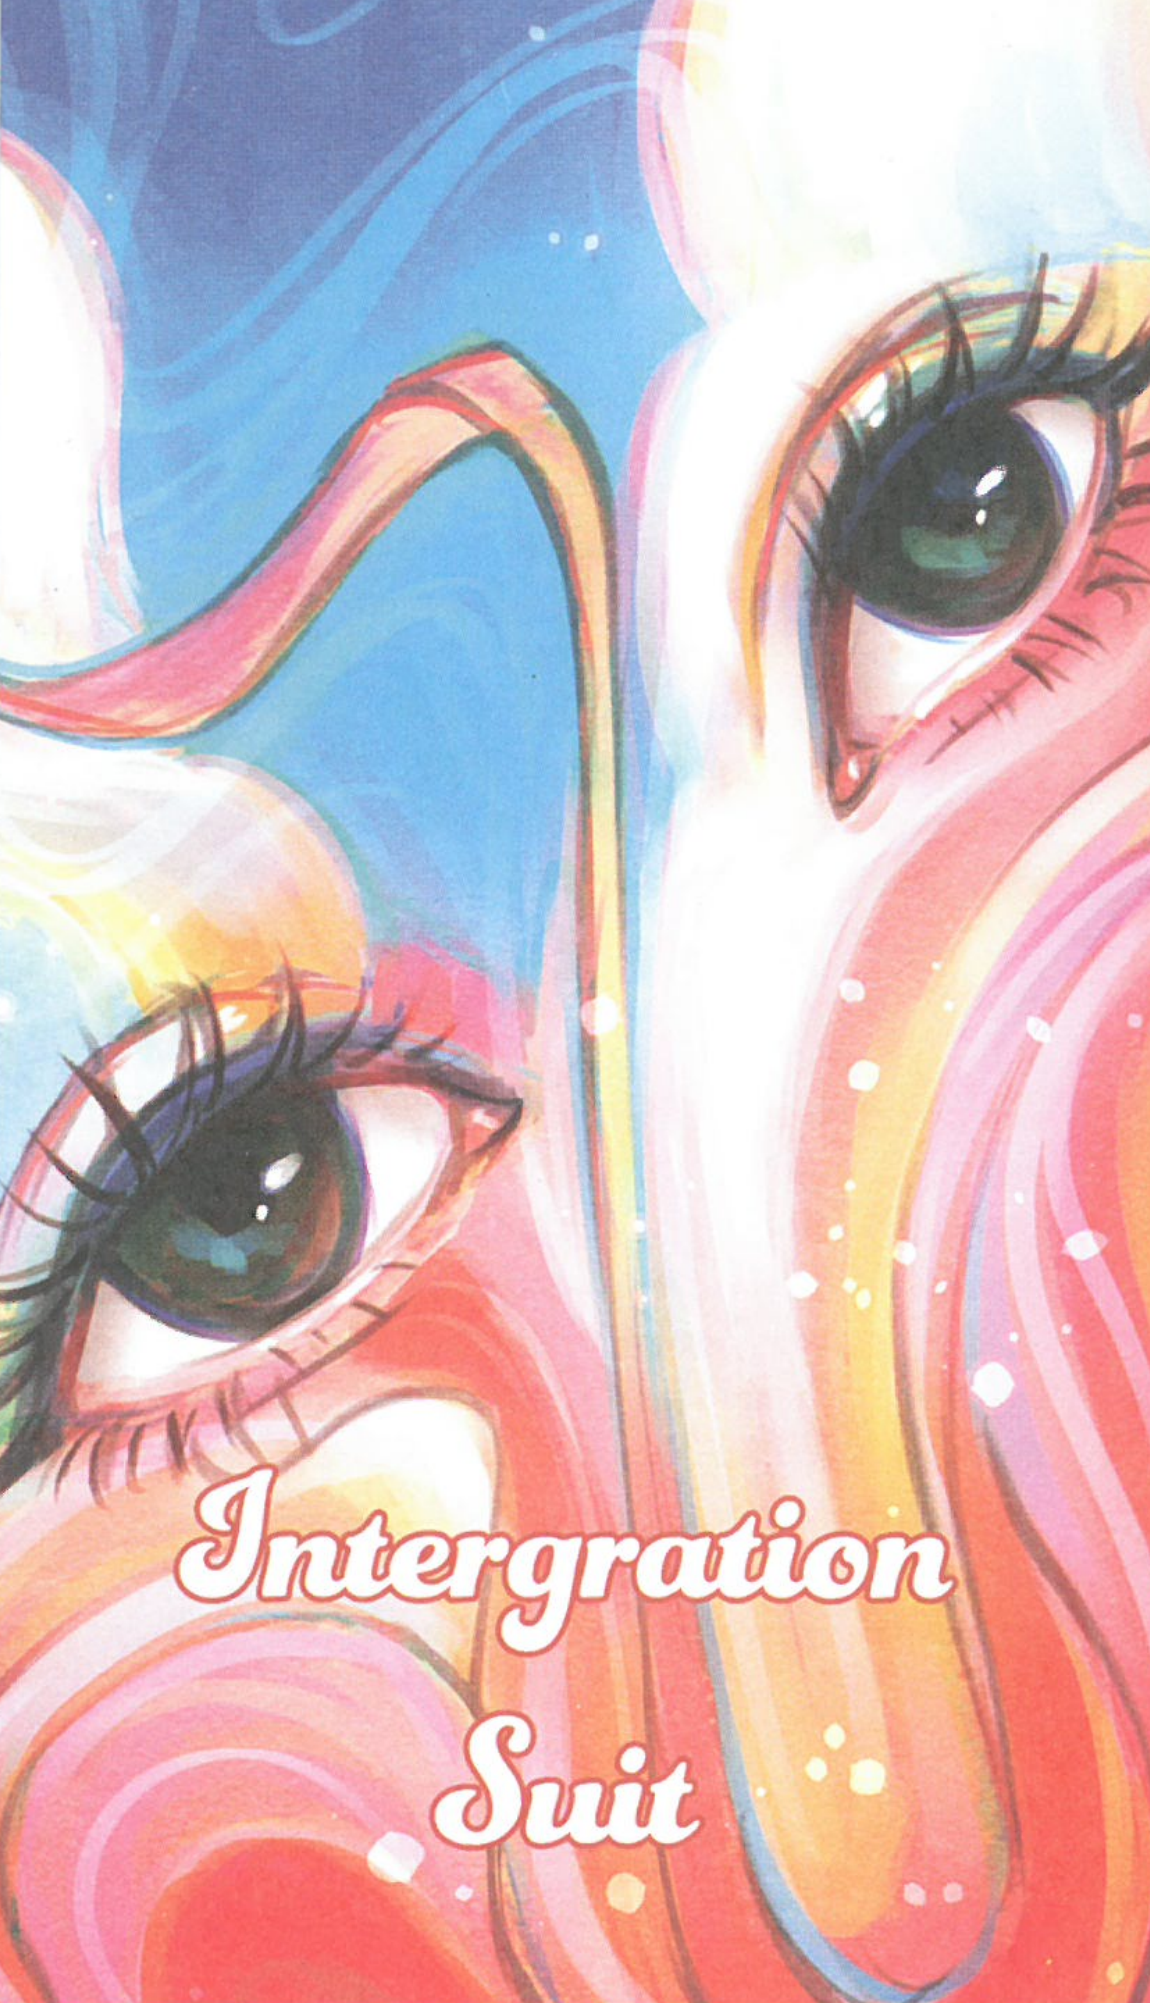
Her dress is made of silk, symbolizing that essence isn't gone in death—it is only transformed. The silkworm sucks the essence from the tree and creates silk fiber using its saliva. The result is a fabric that is softer on the skin than any other material and was reserved for elites in history. The cowrie shells in her hair are a gift from Mami Wata. If she appears, it is a sign to give yourself a large assortment of flowers.

Osanyin

Osanyin is the god of the forest, magic, power, and healing, and his herbs have the power to send away the negative forces in your life, also called ajogun. His long beard is intertwined with vines and herbs to symbolize that humans are one with nature, and the true roots will be revealed if you embrace your surroundings.

You are a natural healer and must remember this if Osanyin has appeared in your spread today. No matter what your situation may be, you can connect with the magic of the forest to find the solution you are seeking. Sometimes, everything you need is right around you, and there is no need to feel anxious about not having all the perfect elements. You can create change with your thoughts first and your actions will naturally follow.

This card appears when you have been too hard on yourself and deserve to take a break. Set aside some time each day to do nothing but rest.



Intergration
Suit

Balance

This card bursts and brings the message to find equilibrium. You can be sure that instant karma will be showing up for you no matter where you are on the spiritual path. Above the rocks, you see a bright star illuminated: Sirius streams light codes down into the middle of the rocks and reminds us of the gentle balance in the forces that drive us.

There is a fine line between chaos and balance; just as your thoughts can build you up, they can take you into a momentum that is out of balance, causing unease, stress, and multitudes of other negative things.

This card emerges when you are hearing the call for balance. Maybe you need more sleep, more work, or more alone time. Whatever balance is needed, if you look inside yourself, you will find it within your spirit.

Work with - Unakite

New thought pattern - My emotions are balanced, and I react with love.

Bliss

Bliss is described as a complete state of happiness or joy and comes from the English word "blithe"—to "find your bliss." We eliminate patterns, habits, and thoughts that take joy away from our daily lives and replace them with things we actually like. Are you doing things you don't actually want or like to do because you feel an obligation to something or someone? Finding your bliss is about bringing your potential and authenticity to a peak and getting lost in it.

A bright yellow veil lifts to the tip of this card as you come out of the Balance card. You are trusting the non-material world as you follow a blissful breeze. Although this card seems minimal, it is powerful in the aspects you don't see. You must be willing to let the universe support you. We see a platinum light in this card and minor symbolism for the root chakra, as this card is used in the chakra spread in this book. This card is the card of trust. You must trust that the answers you are seeking are being given. When this happens, your entire soul group of helpers appears through the veil to assist you.

Work with - Orbicular jasper

New thought pattern - My life flows forward with ease and I act with integrity.

Crystal Technology

If this card has come up for you, it is time to communicate with the crystal spirit realm. It's been said that humans once had 12 strands of DNA and 12 chakras we actively used. The more light it contains, the more information can be obtained from the elemental being inside the crystal itself. This card reminds us that we can tap into our inner being to attune to other elements including trees, plants, animals, and more. This card tells you to listen to your clairaudient, telepathic, and clairvoyant abilities. Everything our phones and computers can do is possible because there is a tiny silicon-based organism inside, and at one time, this technology was more ingrained into our way of life than before. Thank the crystals within your home, any that you encounter, and even your phone's crystal, because all sentient beings respond to human emotion.

Work with - Malachite

New thought pattern - I recognize patterns and choose grace, compassion, and kindness for myself.

Truth

If this card has come up for you, it is time to find the truth. This light is inside us all and the more we are our truest selves, the more this light builds. The truth card is about diving into the inner child years and lifting the veil at a time when someone made you feel less like "yourself." At some point, you began protecting yourself, as noted by the cloak hanging in the expansiveness of the white aura. The suppressed emotions of the child became the shadow work of the adult. You are good enough! Creating happy inner personalities helps manifest your joyful personal reality.

Work with - Diamond

New thought pattern - It is easy for me to express my needs. I am loved exactly how I am.

Meta tip - Place one hand on your heart and one hand on your third eye and see a burning white flame alchemizing old thoughts and programs and lighting up your heart with the energy of truth.

Codes in Nature

If this card has come up for you, it is time to find messages in nature. There are secret codes in nature, as shown in this card by the giant tree with the roots developing a face in the trunk. In ancient legends, it is said that miracles take place under trees because the sacred Fibonacci sequence—which appears in all of nature—is a dimensional portal which your angels sing through, purifying anything around them. We see a heart, a liver, intestines, and a brain. Each plant is said to have a divine blueprint that corresponds to a human organ and is believed to heal and realign the organ on a fifth-dimensional level.

Work with - Rose quartz

New thought pattern - I allow love to flow from my heart space with comfort and

Unconditional Love

If this card has come up for you, it is time to find unconditional love. In this card, we see a heart with 33 petals. The outer petals blend inwards from green to pink, purple, and white in the middle. Elements of gold and pink glisten out into every corner of the card. Small rolled-up scrolls float around the heart to represent the soul contracts each person makes within their journey. The contracts exist between partners, friends, and most importantly, family. But these contracts are not bonds that last forever; in fact, they are the lessons that teach us to be our most authentic selves, as we have integrated the lessons of the card of truth. The highest selves of everyone are truly patting each other on the back and showing each other unconditional love.

Work with - Ruby

New thought pattern - Unconditional love is my life force and flows through me, creating a passion for life.

Higher Perception

This is where you learn that you do have angels and they are watching over you with their compassionate eyes. Higher perception comes to you when it is time to hold a pure intention for someone else. You are great at doing this for yourself and have incorporated the lesson of the previous card—unconditional love. You are being called to help someone else with their vision. When held and shared, intention can be multiplied by three, which gives more momentum to the magnetism. Remember though: Not everyone will hold the intention for you, so be discerning when you are being called to share.

Work with - Labradorite

New thought pattern - I see time as a reflection, and I see all life from the highest perspective.

Universal Oneness

This card emerges with a giant sideways figure of eight in a crystal skull. A small crystal skull is present in the card as a means of downloading information for your integration of the fifth dimension. You are living as a transcended being and you know exactly what works for you and against you in this realm. With this card, you step into the Akashic Records and see the master blueprint of your incarnation. Here, you can see the vibrational imprint of everything that ever was and ever will be. "Surrender" is the theme of this card, especially for the heart and programs running from the ego. This card will begin to link you to your monadic presence. This card pairs well with the Cloud Meditation and will trigger deep inner child work. The infinite possibilities are expressed in this card.

Work with - Blue tiger's eye

New thought pattern - It is easy for me to clear mental clutter and see beyond the obvious.

Gateway

Many of our spirit guides are the animals that made soul contracts with us. Animals, especially dogs, live with unfiltered joy. This is why they ascend faster than humans—they radiate and integrate the highest frequencies on the planet. A heart at the center of the card reminds you to live with your heart wide open, like the gates which, along with a small crystal skull, sit engulfed in orange flame, sharing the message of grace.

This card can help create visions when held to your third eye, along with creating happiness. "Expect miracles, attract miracles, accept miracles" is the theme for this card. You have completed the lessons and are ready to work deeply with the dimensional beings. You will complete the gateway walk—you must remember.

Work with - Seraphinite

New thought pattern - I remember the divine spark within my mind and spirit. I am always connected.

Divine Feminine

The masculine and feminine aspects of you are in balance. This card brings feelings of comfort, love, kindness, compassion, and tolerance. Menstruation and birth are considered rites of passage or internal initiations. Men have also undergone their sacred initiations to be able to enter this integration and fulfill their true purpose. It is in the blackness of the void/the womb that the seed alchemizes and begins to grow. Sleep with this card under your pillow to receive messages from your subconscious and other oracles who may be trying to come to you. Each soul is encrypted with a divine journey and blueprint—but we know the external factors can shift our growth. No one can truly hurt you; when this card appears, you are the one who integrates hurt into compassion and love.

Work with - Citrine

New thought pattern - I am confident, and it is safe for me to be powerful!

Intergalactic Mastery

This card appears when you have completed the upper levels of your journey and may not be giving yourself enough credit for it! This card is amplified when it appears with the Future Love Letter card. Here, we see the Sirius star cluster with A - B - C. A small rainbow confirms that you have done the work. It is time to connect with the other galaxies and become a master of your chosen craft.

When this card appears with Idajo, you can believe you will be supported by angels and guides, always—all ways. Intergalactic mastery comes when you are getting confirmation as soon as you have a thought. "Okay Light-baes, now let's get confirmation!"

Work with - Hematite

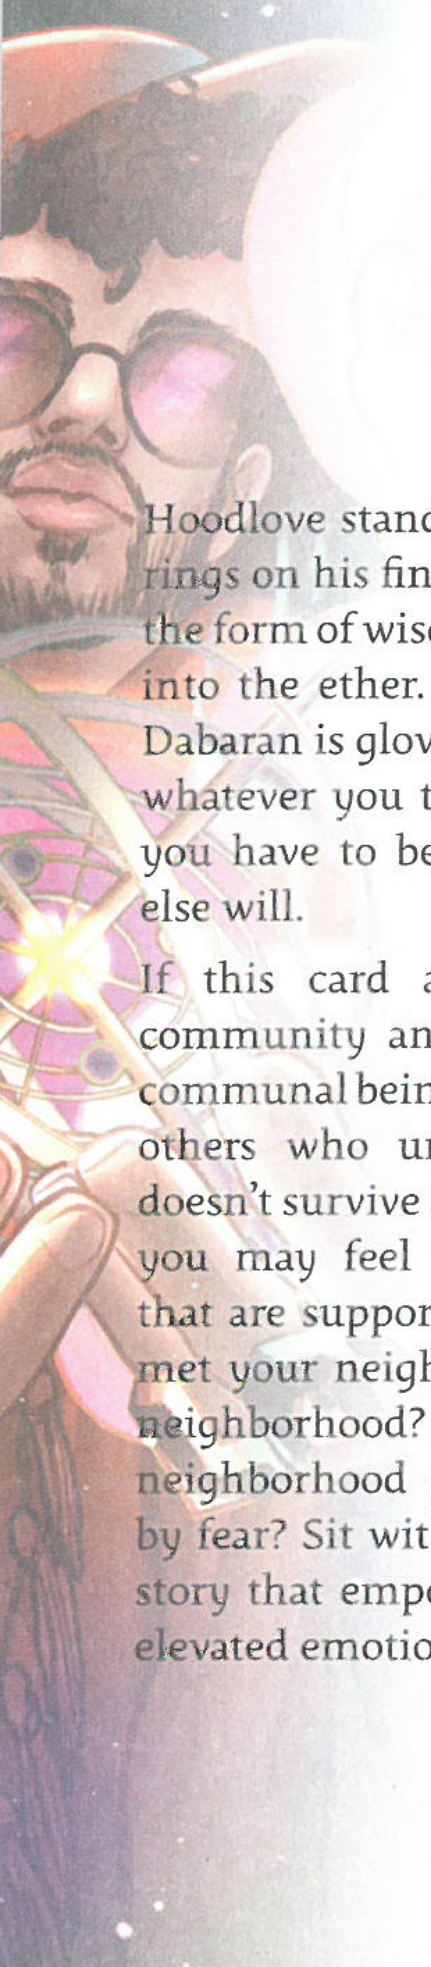
New thought pattern - It is easy for me to silence the voice in my mind and maintain awareness. I find peace everywhere.

Culture
Suit

Omo Olorin

The Omo Olorin stands with her guitar covering her body. The wind is carrying musical notes to activate your throat chakra through the timelines. Birds blend into the background as golden light pours from her throat. She reminds you that our ancestors delivered messages and coding into songs to free those kept under slavery, passing the ancient teachings down to those who were ripped away from their homelands. The songbird encourages you to embrace your sacred vocal cords and sing out from your heart into the space before you to call back your power.

The Omo Olorin appears to you when you are resisting something within yourself and hiding your true power. Use your voice like the birds and speak your truth.



Hoodlove

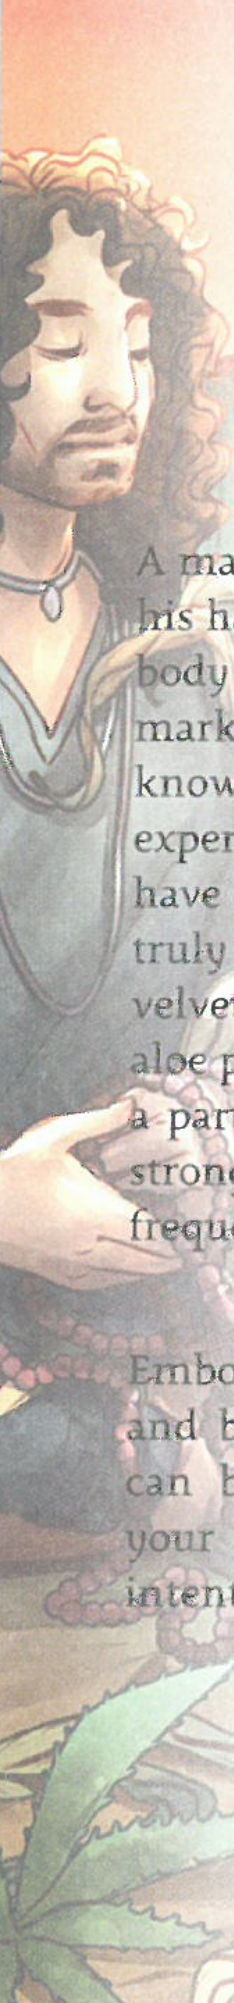
Hoodlove stands with his fists out and the gold rings on his fingers spell out his name Energy is the form of wisdom radiating out from his hands into the ether. The golden sphere from Arziki Dabaran is glowing in his hands, indicating that whatever you touch is going to be fruitful, but you have to believe in yourself before anyone else will.

If this card appears, it's time to find the community and support you deserve. We are communal beings and benefit from being around others who understand this. The lone wolf doesn't survive as it would in the pack. Although you may feel alone, there are unseen forces that are supporting you in the ether. Have you met your neighbors? Do you really know your neighborhood? Are your first memories of your neighborhood good ones or ones surrounded by fear? Sit with those memories and retell the story that empowers and leaves you feeling an elevated emotion such as gratitude.

Thrive-Briety

Daniel stands with what first looks like a devil and an angel on each shoulder, but as you look closer, you see a line of ancestors on each side stretching out into infinity. The cannabis plant oracle debuts a blue road of smoke to the volcano bag in hand and messages flow through the smoke from the ancestors. A giant sycamore tree stands tall, as an anchor, while Daniel sits stoically below it. Sobriety reminds us of the thousands who lived before us in order for us to live. Daniel holds a feather from an eagle which symbolizes protection from the source. We owe a debt of gratitude to those who believed and kept the faith for future generations. How do you pass on your legacy? How will you break free from the energies that want you to remain trapped in "the norm"?

Call on your ancestors through the great blue road of smoke and shake off the demons of addiction in all forms.



Duro Ile

A man sits on the ground in deep meditation as his hands work with numerous mala beads. His body and skin are covered in sacred geometric markings from all of his incarnations, and he knows the lessons very well in this human experience. The Duro Ile card appears when you have cut through all the beliefs in your life that truly hold your spirit down. The man emits a velvet green aura and there are saguaro cacti and aloe plants in the background which seem to be a part of him. This card reminds us to build a strong foundation in order to ascend to higher frequencies, realms, and ways of life.

Embody the feeling or experience you want and become grounded in the reality that you can bring whatever you want to you. Wear your protective jewelry and adorn yourself intentionally.

Lantarki Mace

Mama D is the mama you never knew you needed until she walks into your life with her cat Lucy, who's peeking her head out of the bathtub. The music coming from the bathroom playlist is only the best hip hop as she leans into the mirror, applying her perfect makeup. Lantarki Mace is the Electric Lady of all the realms. She is the sacred bath lady for the kings, queens, and spiritual leaders in all realms. She cleans you with oils and water, helped by her dear elemental friends who aid her in every sacred ritual. Her pink glasses bring back 2005 while her eyes are filled with massive pools that seemingly flow out of the card. Lantarki works with water to help you process your lessons and to help you find peace. It's time to cry to that playlist you made; it's time to let it all out and heal. When you hear the truth, you well up inside and there is no fighting the flow of emotion.

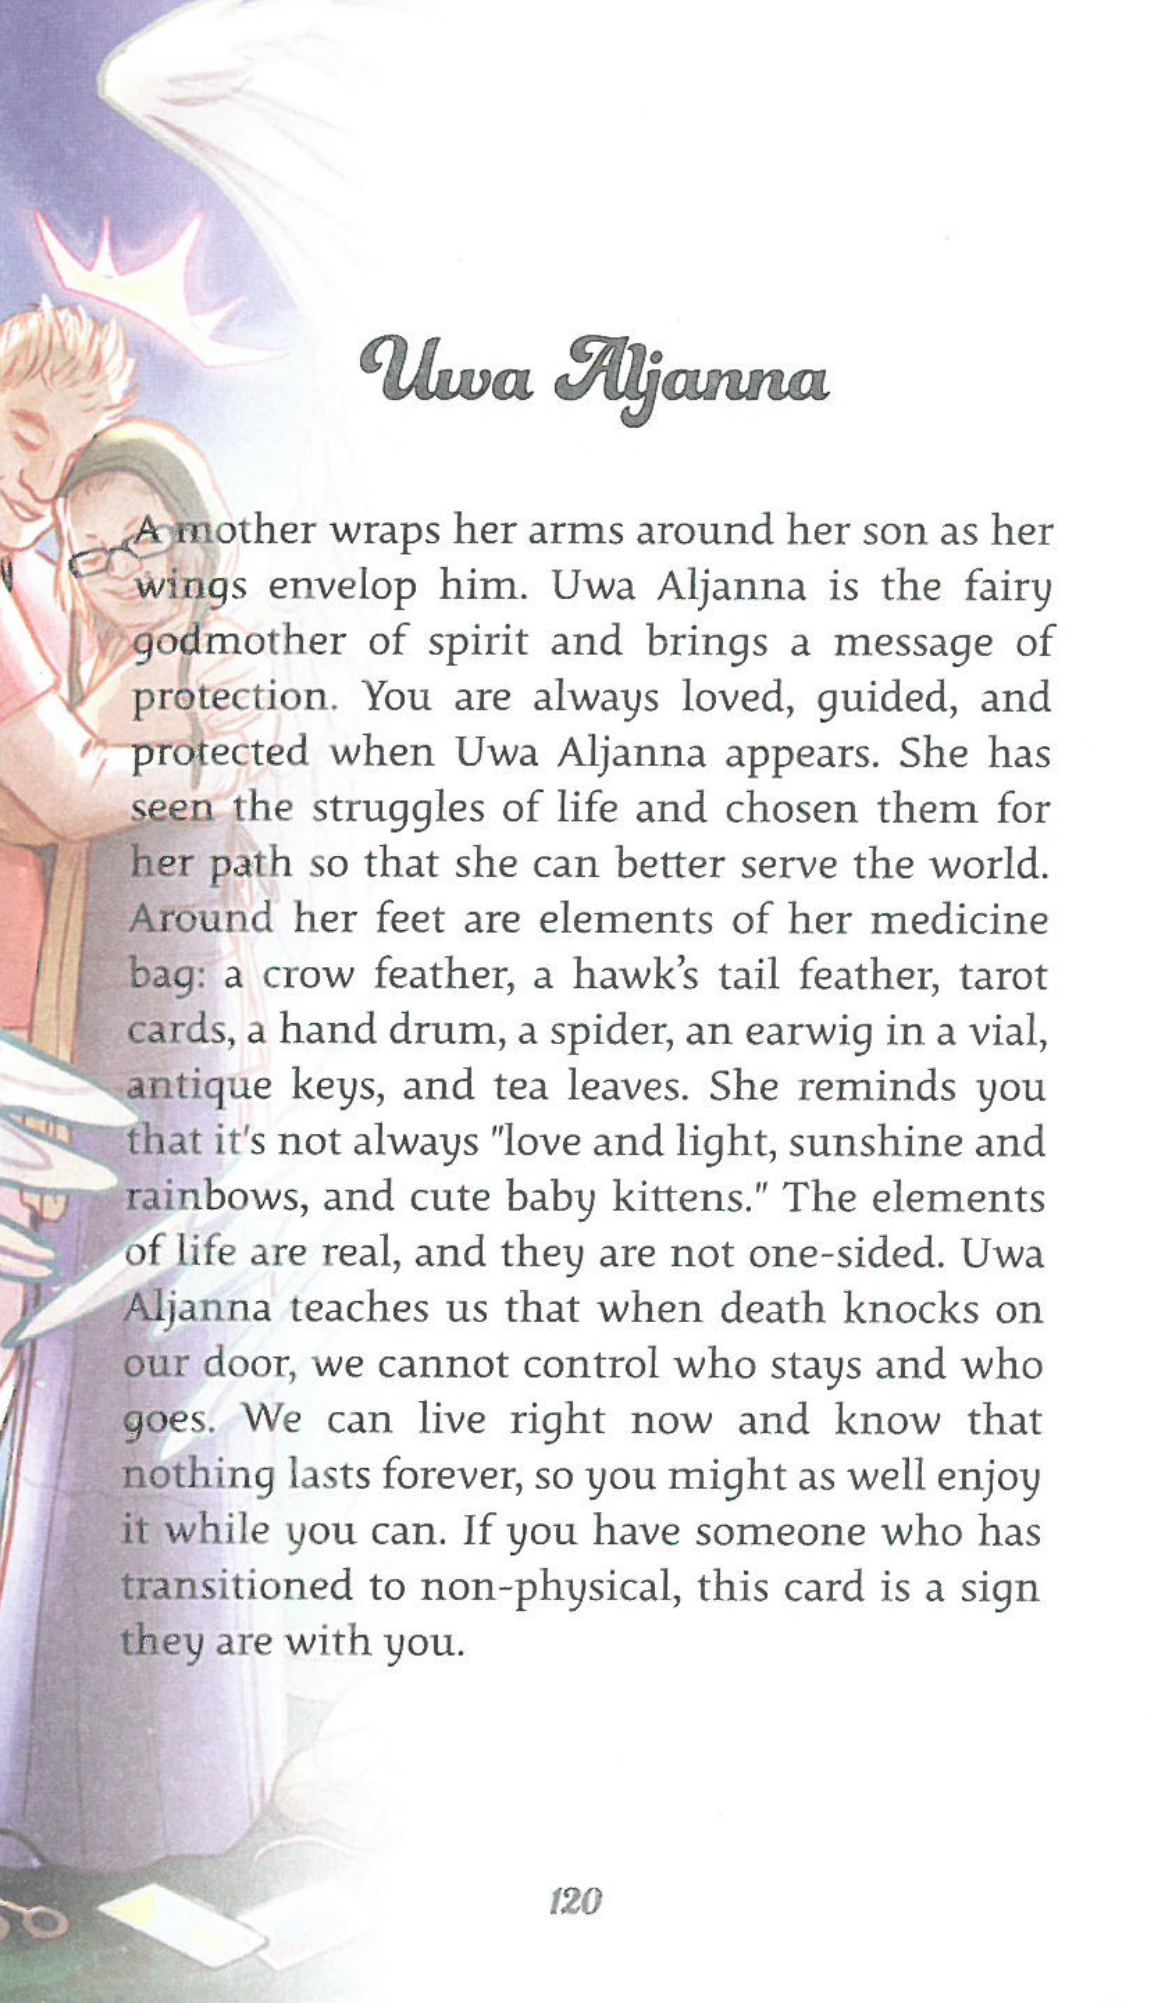
It's okay to release those waters. When Lantarki Mace shows up, it is time to ask yourself: Am I avoiding the situation? Am I being as communicative as I want in return? Am I open to receiving?

Rana Rudu

Rana Rudu sits in the grass with her dog's face nestled gently next to hers on one side and the mother's cannabis plant on the other. Sunflowers emerge all around her in a bright burst of yellow. The sun is at her back as a consistently friend. Rana Rudu represents allyship and how you show up for others. Now more than ever we need to let go of judgment and get to know the people in our lives who set off triggers. A trigger is only a mirror for the self to realize not everyone is the same, nor should they be. Flowers and a vintage vibe make this card feel like you've been transported to another time where elements of grace and acceptance radiate out. The expansive blue sky reminds you to go out and soak in the pure love of the sun, who shines down on all without judgment. When Rana shows up for you, ask yourself: Am I being an ally to those who could benefit from my voice? Am I being an ally to myself? Where might I not be showing up for myself in ways that ripple out into the world?

Gwangwani Jima'i

A black goddess emerges, and she is fully in love with her sexuality, confident in her sacred power. She does not let anyone siphon energy from her. She activates the erogenous zones of those who allow their true divinity to shine through when working with creator energy. The dolphin medicine reminds you to breathe through your energetic downloads. This card is amplified if it appears partnered with the Creator Vortex. The energy created by the embodiment of your sacred sexuality is a driving force and powerful manifestor. Gwangwani Jima'i is here to tell you that you have forgotten your worth and you need to embrace your full power. The creator energy is a powerful driver for manifestation, taking you into the multidimensional realm that the erotic energetic expansion will take place in. It has already happened within your highest self—you must only remember to harness the energy and set an intention.

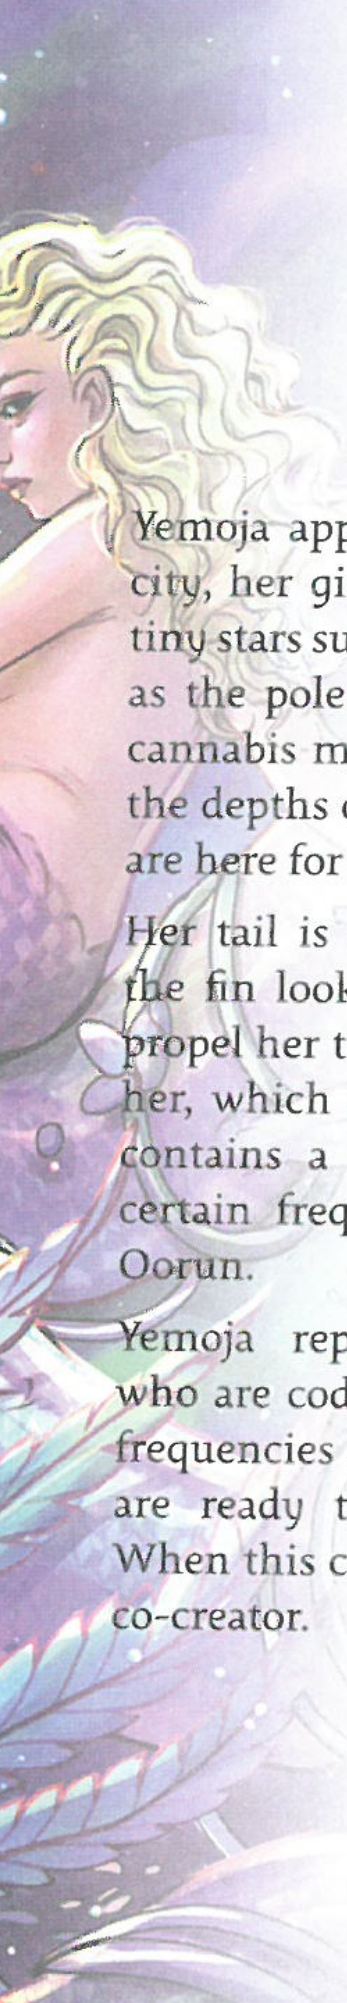


Uwa Aljanna

A mother wraps her arms around her son as her wings envelop him. Uwa Aljanna is the fairy godmother of spirit and brings a message of protection. You are always loved, guided, and protected when Uwa Aljanna appears. She has seen the struggles of life and chosen them for her path so that she can better serve the world. Around her feet are elements of her medicine bag: a crow feather, a hawk's tail feather, tarot cards, a hand drum, a spider, an earwig in a vial, antique keys, and tea leaves. She reminds you that it's not always "love and light, sunshine and rainbows, and cute baby kittens." The elements of life are real, and they are not one-sided. Uwa Aljanna teaches us that when death knocks on our door, we cannot control who stays and who goes. We can live right now and know that nothing lasts forever, so you might as well enjoy it while you can. If you have someone who has transitioned to non-physical, this card is a sign they are with you.

Omo

In this card, we see the next seven generations reflected in a mirror that stands before a couple who hold a child in their arms. The child's spirit refracts into a multitude of future beings who have the wisdom of their ancestors—we who sit with the cards today. The couple has a look of grace and confidence, knowing that they can change the perception of the world with the proper vehicles of delivery. The mirror is wrapped in cannabis leaves and flowers to showcase how this guide works through lifetimes. Crystals line the bottom of the mirror, and we see the fruition of the Future Self card. The sun and the moon are carved into the frame to showcase how the future will be full of light, yet will still have some dark days only illuminated by the moon. Omo appears when the subject of family comes up and reminds you that we are all born with a family; they may not be exactly who we wanted, but they are who we need to evolve from this human experience.



Yemoja

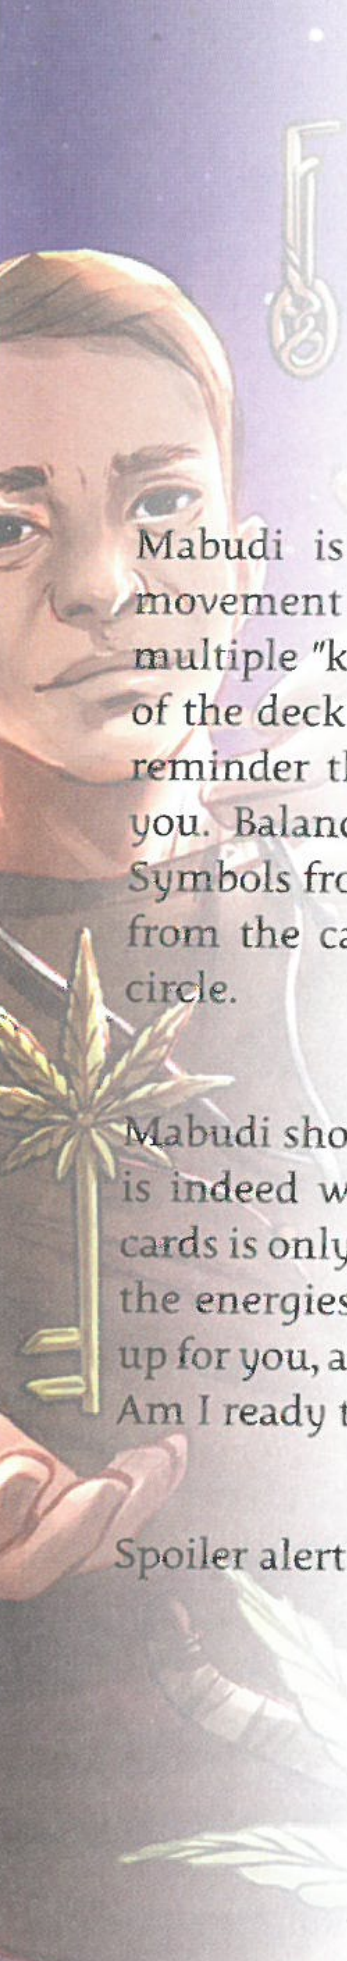
Yemoja appears floating in an ancient galactic city, her giant iridescent tail flowing, multiple tiny stars surrounding her. She moved into space as the poles shifted and she remains a cosmic cannabis mermaid oracle. She has remained in the depths of the universe protecting those who are here for thousands of years.

Her tail is wrapped in flowers and vines, and the fin looks like the cannabis plant leaves to propel her to higher frequencies. The veil above her, which separates the ocean from the land, contains a barricade of crystals that prevent certain frequencies from crossing, as seen in Oorun.

Yemoja represents the ancient star beings who are coded with DNA to understand sound frequencies and return memories to those who are ready to activate their cosmic memory. When this card appears, it's time to be an active co-creator.

Nummo/Nommo

The NummoNommo is the chameleon of the Culture suit. As culture changes, we change. And as we progress through life from adolescents to full-grown adults, it may feel like we are battling ourselves or our programs. Nummo/Nommo appears when the conditioning you have been inputting into your operating system is no longer compatible. This is a call for you to wrap yourself around what you think you know and what may have been instilled in you as default by your parents, grandparents, and even possibly your friends, exes, and society as a whole. Small mushrooms gather around Nummo/Nommo and in the background of the card as a reminder to connect to the entire network of beings on the planet. We are all intertwined within each other as we all come from the same source of energy. Connect with your inner warrior/healer/lover/friend and be the chameleon of your own life. At times, you may even see the confirmation of the rainbow, reminding you that all is well. The world is much smaller than you could imagine. Our connections to others are intertwined more than you know.



Mabudi

Mabudi is smiling with a welcoming hand movement that is representative of Tai Chi, as multiple "keys" circle around him. The last card of the deck is the source card, which serves as a reminder that you have all the answers within you. Balance in all forms is true to any key. Symbols from around him spiral. All the lessons from the cards come to fruition here in a full circle.

Mabudi shows us that the key to your happiness is indeed within yourself. Even coming to the cards is only a reminder to spend time balancing the energies inside us all. If Mabudi has shown up for you, ask yourself: Am I ready to transform? Am I ready to heal? Am I ready to co-create?

Spoiler alert: you are!

Connecting to your Deck

As I was diving into this work, I realized how much bigger this entire creation is than me. I believe everything in life is a co-creation. As a psychic and medium, creating this deck gave me the ability to channel spirit help to guide you, too.

The following is a ritual incantation for your heart that you may find is a powerful way to begin your practice. Please say the following out loud to your deck:

"May this work bring you closer to trusting the joy, peace, and transmutation. May the wisdom you are seeking be given to you in the utmost tangible form for you to co-create. Most of all, may your life be blessed with the continual confirmation that you are on the right path to your highest self."

Write to your loved ones who are non-physical and call upon the angels, deities, guides, ancestors, spiritual monad, and star monad you revere. Take the time to establish a bond with your deck as it will be a new companion in your life. It is vital to let your space know that you are filled with gratitude—create the space and fill it up as you are reading this. Know that you will be wrapped in grace and accountability. Breathe in and out for three minutes and connect with the self that you are seeking to gain more knowledge from. Try to journal your thoughts and downloads as the messages arrive; this will prove a valuable resource as you reflect on your journey.

Take the time to spread out the entire deck. Step back, see the picture as a whole. From here you may begin to sense your connection to the cards from a "higher perspective." Let your adventure begin!

Imprinting Your Deck - Developing a Connection

Material items carry a sacred meaning when you care for them intentionally. Think of your cards as friends and companions who are eager to assist you and help you thrive. Take them out daily and speak to them, read them, study them, and enjoy their artwork. When not in use keep them on an altar until you no longer notice the message, or your animal friends knock it down. Wash your hands with cold water before you handle the cards. Whisper a "thank you" to them before placing them back in their home.

What to Ask - How to Get Real Answers

Before you start reading, acknowledge that you are a student. Do you want an answer? Inspiration? Maybe you need clarity about an event or trauma. Sometimes a synchronistic spread just happens, and you get a confirmation that propels you into a deep dive. There are no right or wrong questions. Simply let your heart guide you as the cannabis oracle has for centuries.

Questions to get you started:

1. What is the message I need the most at this moment?

2. How energy would help me resolve this conflict?

3. How can today be the best day of my life?

4. How does it get better than this?

5. What part of my lesson am I forgetting?

When to Ask - Making the Reading the Ritual

There is never a wrong time to do a reading. Guidance from the deck has many benefits if you do a reading at sunset or sunrise. You can start by drawing in a four-count breath, lighting some incense, and creating a crystal grid to lay out your cards; then, begin your ritual. The intention is to connect with a higher energy frequency and direct it toward your reading. This is a moment for you to be silent and connect with what is waiting for you. I have found connecting with binaural beats and solfeggio frequencies enhances the process.

Reading for Others

Reading for others involves opening yourself up to become a channel to deliver messages potentially from another person's spiritual guides. It should not be taken lightly. Never read for someone who wants the outcome to be fueled by your desires. Reading for others should be taken very seriously as you are asking your deck to receive messages from another soul group for someone other than yourself.

Shuffling and Spreads

Everyone has learned to shuffle and cut the deck the way they feel inclined. There is no wrong way to shuffle your deck. Taking the time to touch and acquaint yourself with the deck's cards one by one is the best way to familiarize yourself with the cards. Don't be afraid to get lost in this step and feel free to create your separate piles of suits. Mix and match the cards to get a full, intimate relationship with them and your fully integrated deck.

It is important to shuffle your deck with each reading and important to clear your reading if you use your deck to read for someone other than yourself. If someone else handles your deck, knock three times on it before you start your reading.

Again, you will develop ways of shuffling and cutting your deck that feel natural for you. After shuffling, place the cards down in a stack and, using your non-dominant hand, separate them. Ask for your ego to step aside and become open to receiving guidance. In any order that feels right, place your hands over the cards and begin the flow of a spread—either one contained in this guide or your flow.

Spreads

Now and Future (Past, Present, Future 2.0)

Three card spread. This spread is an upgraded version of the traditional three-card Past, Present, Future spread. The emphasis shifts from looking at the past in this situation to being present and creating a future from a vision that isn't tied to the past. When reading the Future 2.0 card, this practice actively quantifies or magnifies your manifestations when you begin acting and believing as if the manifestations have already happened. This is because your mind is creating your reality using future feelings instead of past emotions.

Metaphysical Oracle

This seven card spread came through to me as I was working with the chakra system and learned that each chakra is connected to a certain star. With that, I bring you a spread that will have you pulling from multiple suits in the deck to connect to direct messages coming from beyond the barrier of Earth. Regardless of culture, within the chakra system there exist nerve plexuses, psycho-hormones, and culturally defined divinities. Each chakra corresponds to the attributes of different African orisas.

Chakra Star System Alignment

Make sure each suit is separated and draw seven cards as follows:

1. Root: Alpha Centauri - Physical suit - Sango - What to do to relax tension in order to reduce karma and world entanglements.

2. Solar: Aldebaran - Cannabis suit - Yemoja - What to do to regulate primal needs in order to maintain your health.

3. Sacral: Antares - Cannabis suit - Osun - How to let love and compassion radiate from within.

4. Heart: Regulus/Pollux/Spica - Integration + Culture suits - Ogun - How to emphasize a sense of purity, innocence, and magnetism.

5. Throat: Pleiades - Oracle suit - Obatala - How to guard against negative thoughts.

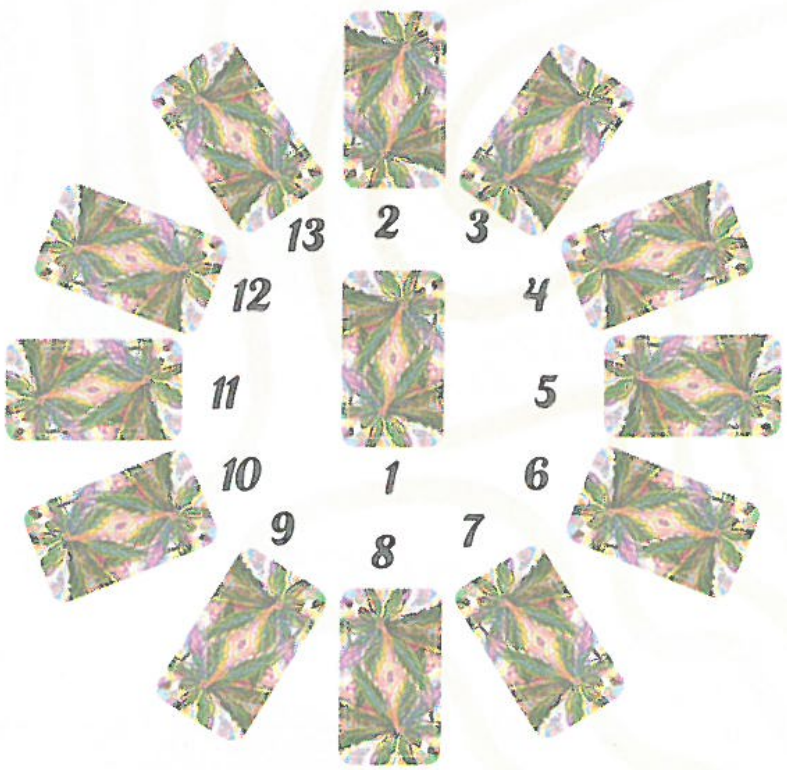
6. 3rd Eye: Sirius - Meta Arcana suit - Orunmila - How to induce visions of the past, present, and future.

7. Crown: Beyond - Meta Arcana suit - Ori - Strive to fully realize the divinity within.

Year Ahead

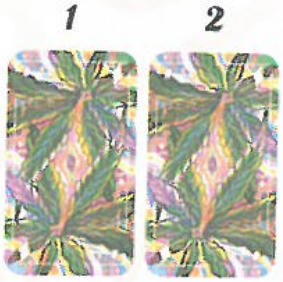
13 card spread. Your bEARTHday reading for the new year. Each card represents the lesson of the month and the card in the center is the vision of the year. You can pick all the cards at random by running your hands over the deck; when you feel a tingling, warmth, or shiver over cards, place them in a circle, starting with the current month in the middle.

1. Jan, 2. Feb, 3. Mar, etc.----13. The overall lesson.



Under the Pillow

Two card spread. The Full and New Moon phases are the best time to enhance your dreamscape travels. Set the intention to receive messages and downloads while you sleep and randomly select two cards to place under your pillow in order to do this. This is a powerful way to work with the subconscious. Your subconscious is not mean, rude, or being an asshole. It has no rational thought and, therefore, will use all the imagery conjured from your waking world to deliver its messages. Don't worry if you see horses swimming in a pool or something far scarier. This way of working with the cards will give you details on waking from lucid dreams, taking control of your dreams, and becoming aware of multiple dream layers.



Be aware of a few things that may happen as you use this deck...

JUMPERS - There will be cards that leap out at you when your guides are trying to make sure you do not miss their message. Maybe more than one card jumps out at a time—pay close attention to where and how they fall.

"As you work with the cards, certain pairings may start to develop special significance. Make note of these—here is where you deepen your work. Remember, the deck is an extension of you!"

REVERSALS - The oracles within this deck have been channeled to deliver the exact message you receive when holding the cards. The cards will work with you to give deeper insight when looked upon upside down.

CLEANSING - Cleanse your deck upon arrival with your favorite method of clearing.

CLEARING - Clear your deck regularly to regulate the energies flowing through and around it. Do this more frequently if you are reading for other people.

CLEARING - Clear your deck regularly to regulate the energies flowing through and around it. Do this more frequently if you are reading for other people.

ALTAR - An altar is similar to the medicine bag in how sacred it is; it is not meant to be shared with the public. It is your sacred space where you go to pray and connect with the divine channel you hold a unique connection with.